

Figure S2. Photomosaic and trench log of the east wall of the southern extension of T4, excavated in 2014. Horizontal scale shows distance south from a line approximating the San Andreas fault trace (Figure 02). The sediments coarsen with increasing distance south from the fault trace, resulting in several unclear unit contacts and correlations. No stratigraphic or structural evidence for earthquakes is present in this exposure.