This document has been requested by the Signature Approval System hosted by the Virginia Tech Graduate School (<https://ess.graduateschool.vt.edu/>) and is submitted along with a PDF copy of my dissertation, "Reproduction of the root-knot nematode Meloidogyne arenaria on flue-cured tobacco possessing resistance genes Rk1 and/or Rk2 and the impact of parasitism on the accumulation of nicotine in conventional and low-alkaloid tobacco", in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in the School of Plant and Environmental Sciences.

I, Noah Adamo, claim copyright protection for my Ph.D. dissertation, "Reproduction of the root-knot nematode Meloidogyne arenaria on flue-cured tobacco possessing resistance genes Rk1 and/or Rk2 and the impact of parasitism on the accumulation of nicotine in conventional and low-alkaloid tobacco" (2020). In accordance with VT Graduate School requirements, I hereby grant to Virginia Tech and its agents the non-exclusive license to archive and make accessible my thesis or dissertation [in whole or in part in all forms of media], now or hereafter known. I retain all ownership rights to the copyright of the thesis or dissertation. I also retain the right to use in future works (such as articles or books) all or part of this thesis or dissertation.
