Foreword

W

E cannot stand forever upon the threshold of life and look forward to a glorious future, for the time must come when we shall derive a great deal of our pleasure from memories of the past. During the four years which are now drawing to a close we have been laying a foundation for these memories, and it is the purpose of this book to furnish an accurate record of the joys and sorrows of our college life. If, in years to come, we may look through these pages and live again the days of our youth, days that were really worth while, our purpose will have been accomplished. It is our sincerest wish that the record herein contained may be a source of infinite pleasure in those days when pleasant memories will insure our happiness.

Miss "DYNAMITE," GIBSON
Blacksburg, Va.
Senior Class Mascot

The last class bell of the afternoon had just sounded, and the freshmen, holding themselves erect and braced and keeping to the right of the walks, could easily be distinguished from the upperclassmen who sauntered carelessly along the stoops. Here and there a Co-ed, heavily laden with books, could be seen making her way to the new Woman's Dormitory.

A Rat detached himself from the long line which was slowly moving towards the West Side barracks, and wended his way towards the shop of John, the barber.

Good natured, as usual, John immediately broached a conversation by casually asking the freshman what he thought of V. P. I. The youth instantly replied, "Well, John, as far as the school is concerned, I like it fine. I don't believe that I could have chosen a better place. But there is one thing up here that I don't like and that is these Rat regulations and the way the old men enforce them."

John laughingly replied, "Well, suh! Well, suh! Seems like new men every year feel just like you do. You all don't have to do nothin'. You jest ought to been up here back yonder when they had hazing, back in the time when those '21 boys wuz up here. That wuz when the paddles used to ring all day long and night time, too, and when the poor Rats spent half the night on the floor and the other half falling to it. And if they ever had five minutes of quiet in the daytime to themselves, they thought something unusual was goin' to happen."

"John, I noticed that you particularly mentioned the Class of 1921. Was it an extraordinary class, or was it a favorite of yours?"

"It wuz both, Mr. Jackson. It wuz a class of union and progress. It had one of the best bunches of boys in it that I've ever seen. They wuz all good, hard-working boys, and would stick together through thick and thin, trouble and good luck. They jest had dandy spirit, and that's why I jest can't help remembering them. It wuz while they wuz here that they cut out hazing.

"They all came up here in the fall of '17, the first year of the war. They wuz all mighty young, too young to get in the army, so they came up to V. P. I. to prepare themselves so that when old Uncle Sam did call on them they'd be ready. And they did serve him, too, 'cause afore the war wuz over ever' man in that class 'cept those unfit physically or under age, wuz in the army or navy."

"Up here the last of their Rat year, the students begin to think that maybe hazing wuz hurtin' the school. The old men thought it ought to be cut out and that rat regulations should be put in its place, but they realized that they had had their fun, so they decided to leave it to the Rats. Well, after a lot of argument, the Rats finally agreed that to cut out hazing would be the best thing, and that a system of rat rules should be put in place of it. But when they started regular school after the S. A. T. C. the next year, rat regulations had gone to thunder, and hazing was back again. Things went along pretty, though, 'till the Sophs had a class meeting one day in May, and the Rats threw their 'hays' out the winders. The Sophs naturally got tight, and by accident they got into trouble, wuz censured a whole lot, and wuz branded with the name of 'Hoodlums'. They didn't deserve it all, either. But they stuck together and, what I means to say is, they looked after one another.

"Their senior year, the academic standards were raised up to the level they are now, and that put V. P. I. in the position where she belonged with the leading technical schools of the country. But it wuz their senior year, too, that the Board of Visitors voted to make the school Co-ed. And there's one thing that those '21 boys ought to be thankful for."

"What's that, John?"

"Why, they ought to thank their lucky stars that they graduated before the Co-eds changed the school. Jest seems like V. P. I. hasn't been the same since. Things are jest not like they used to be, and that's why I can't help 'membering that lucky bunch."

As Rat Jackson left the barber shop, he said, "Well, John, I'm glad you told me about hazing and the Class of '21. I guess I'll live up to these rules a little better, and we'll certainly have to talk about that class again."

"Right, suh! I always likes to talk about the '21 boys. They wuz my favorites. Call again, suh!"

1912-'13—Corporal, Company "A", HIGH C/O, MARY LITERARY SOCIETY

1913-'20—Sergeant, Company "A", Y. M. C. A. (Cabins); President MARY LITERARY SOCIETY; Dea. Maltese Convention; Masonic Club

1920-'21—First Lieutenant, Company "A"; Treasurer, Y. M. C. A.; President Masonic Club; MARY LITERARY SOCIETY; Editorial Staff "1921 Bugle."

"JAMES R." possesses that rare quality of being the same wherever you may see him. Always friendly, always helpful, and at all times interested in others, he has won the admiration and esteem of all his fellow classmates and of the corps at large. Though "JAMES" has been a hard student, he has always found time to take an active part in the leading college activities. He has staunchly supported literary societies, has shown great ability in Y. M. C. A. work, and has manifested considerable interest in athletics. Everyone feels that with the training which he has had at V. P. L., combined with his excellent qualities, he is bound to have a successful engineering career, and to live as a credit to his Alma Mater.

"PRINCE" is not related to his famous namesake, whose portrait adorns the little red tobacco cans which we see so often, but he is a real "prince" nevertheless. "PRINCE" joined in with us at the beginning of our junior year, and since that time he has been one of the leading lights of the Civil Engineering Department. He is always good-natured, and his dry wit is a never-failing source of pleasure to us all. "PRINCE's" military ambitions seem to be a minus quantity, as he would rather confine his efforts to his classes instead of to the military department. Who knows but that "PRINCE" may sometime in the future design a new way to do "squad" right.

"ERNEST" is another of those boys who will sooner or later aid very materially in putting Bristol on the map. Conscientious and sincere, diligent and industrious are the characteristics that make him one of the most popular men in the corps. "ERNEST" made his debut in Techland along with the rest of us, his sole object being a diploma having Chemical Engineering written upon it. There is, however, a saying that "physicians may marry whom they please." Whether or not "LYNWOOD" has been brooding over this thought is not for us to say, but we do know that he expects to enter Johns Hopkins next year and the prefix Doctor may be in combination with Andrews in a very short while. Hollins may also be involved in this, who knows?

"COOPER" started taking pictures in Emporia some years ago, and upon coming to V. P. I. he continued the pursuit of his favorite hobby. The result is that he is one of the photographic editors of this book, and the quality of the kodak pictures bears witness to his ability as a photographer. "R. C." is also one of the "scribes" of the electrical engineering course, not only in his classes, but in practical electrical work as well. "BAILLY" is a valuable addition to the social circles of Blacksburg, as he takes a leading part in the wild social events of our city (?). "Cooper" possesses all of the qualities which spell success. In the electrical world to which he is going we are sure that a successful career awaits him.

1920-21—Second Lieutenant Company "G"; Secretary-Treasurer, German Club; Editor-in-Chief "1921 Bugle"; Secretary of Class; Tennis Club; Chemical Club; Shenandoah Valley Club.

In presenting the editor-in-chief of the "1921 BUGLE," we wish to mention the fact that he, like Woodrow Wilson, hails from the city of Staunton. For four years "POSSUM," the second of his kind, has been inseparably connected with the history of our class. Since his early freshman days he has specialized in making exceptionally high grades, whether he studied or not, and has always found time to excel in those phases of college life found outside the realm of books. The brainiest man in the corps, according to the vote of the student body, a chemist of the Dalton type, a midget in stature but powerful in achievement; these phrases, in a few words, sum up a few of the characteristics of this man whom we all so greatly admire. May he rate as high in the eyes of the world as he does in the hearts of his classmates.

1916-'17—Sergeant Company "D"; Vice-President Portsmouth Club.

1917-'18—First Lieutenant Company "D"; President Portsmouth Club, Chemical Club.

"HARRY" came among us as a heralded scribe from William and Mary at the beginning of our sophomore year, and during the three years that he has been with us he has not only lived up to his past reputation, but has made an enviable record for himself. He is, needless to say, an excellent student, a good officer, and is generally known as a jolly-well-met, all-round sort of a chap. The Rats of Company "D" are particularly fond of him and have affectionately bestowed on him the name of "UNCLE HARRY." With the knowledge of chemistry which he has obtained at V. P. L., "HARRY" intends to specialize in the manufacture of dyes, and hopes to produce dyestuffs that will far surpass any ever made in Germany. From what we know of him, we feel confident that he will attain his ambition.

It is with the greatest confidence that we see "OUR LEADER," the one and only "JOE," emerge from the ranks of cadetship to those of the practicing engineer. "JOE" has all the earmarks of the successful man, combining with his Thermodynamical and Calculal ability that great asset sometimes called "the gift of gab," and a good level business head—as witness his handling of our "Minstrel Show." Ever cheerful and smiling, he has battered his way through the many obstacles placed between him and his diploma, and we are confident that in his chosen profession he will just as successfully batter his way to the Heights of Success. Go to it, "JOE," and the best wishes of the class go with you.

"George" blew up from Richmond in early September of '17, throwing aside a scholarship to Randolph-Macon, preferring to cast his lot upon the sea of Mechanical Engineering. He is a living example of the golden maxim, "Still water runs deep." A good all-around fellow. To know him a little serves as an impetus to know him better. His military aspirations began to crop out at the end of his sophomore year, and we see him now upon graduation a member of the noble right—a captain. In our estimation there are but two weaknesses that "George" is subject to, which may be summed up very gracefully as follows: "Sleep, sleep, would there were thirty-six hours in a night," and "Petersburg! My thoughts are there."

1920-21—Lieutenant "Band", A. S. M. E., Nottoway-Amelia Club, V. P. I. Officer.

Somebody said that "EDGAR" was a woman-hater—but that fellow just didn't know, because "ER" is the kind of man who doesn't believe in telling everything he knows. "ER" is one of our promising young Mechanical Engineers, and in fact, about the most promising, because he leads his class in almost all of his work. Besides being a "scribe," "EDGAR" is one of the highest types of good-fellows, always friendly and greeting everybody with a good-natured smile. Not only does "ER" hold a high place in his classes, but he is also one of the best clarinet players the band has ever had. He just naturally makes that little "black stick" talk. We feel sure that "EDGAR" will meet with nothing but success, and we wish him "Godspeed."

"HANK" is one of our hardest workers, both as a student and as a "professor." He is one of a large class of two to graduate in "Aggie Engineering" and we are sure that old Tech will be very proud of him in a few years. "HANK" not only is a promising engineer, but also a trombonist who is hard to beat. He has put the "jazzy slides" in the Tech Orchestra for two years, and to say that he is good is putting it too lightly. Besides being a leading member in the "College Five," he is one of the mainstays in the Band. Next year "HENRY" expects to take a degree in Civil Engineering to add to his "Aggie" degree. With so much knowledge, we feel sure he'll never be out of a job, and we wish him a smooth road to success.

Behold! We now present one who was once the pride of Hopewell, the magic City. "Ross" "snapped" his way through V. P. I. in true Eastman fashion. In fact he is one of the photograph editors of this book. "BRACK" is one of those all-around, jolly, good-natured fellows who wears the smile that simply won't come off. He is a charter member of that distinguished order known as the Mechanical Seniors, and many a happy class-room hour has he whiled away for his fellow members by occupying the seat of humor. "Bill" is the only man at V. P. I. who is the inventor of a chemical process which would have saved the government $10,000,000, if they had only known of his discovery before constructing the Muscle Shoals nitrating plant (or at least "Roy J." says). There are many ladies in various parts of our fair state, however, who were able to discover the sterling qualities of this young chemist even before his inventions made him famous. "BILL" is one of the scribes of the Chemical Engineering class as well as a society man of renown. His four years at V. P. I. have brought him many friends among our student body, and when he leaves us he will carry with him our sincerest wishes for a future such as a man of his type deserves.

In the good old days when girls stayed at home at night, a hen laid good eggs for fifteen cents a dozen and the eagle on the dollar wasn't ashamed to look the Goddess of Liberty in the face, the name of Carpenter was the watchword in V. P. I. athletic circles. Whether or not there is anything in a name is a question which we do not attempt to argue, but "DWIGHT" certainly stepped into the middle of things (or rather onto the gridiron) in his senior year, and once more the name of Carpenter graced the sporting pages of many newspapers. "DWIGHT" is another one of these "infant prodigies," although you wouldn't think it. Only nineteen years old and graduating in three years is indeed something for any man to be proud of. As captain of this year's track team we are expecting him to pilot his "wing-foots" to nothing but victories around the cinder path. Go to it, "DWIGHT" old boy, you have a wonderful future.

"JOHN" entered college two years before his present classmates, but his academic work was interrupted by two years of service in the World War. We need not relate to you his excellent service overseas, because the fact that he was awarded "The American Distinguished Service Cross" for exceptional gallantry in action speaks for itself. Although his college career was interrupted, his determination was not altered, and upon release from service he resumed his studies which he faithfully conquered. The day of physical giants has passed, and we are now living in an era which is dominated by brain power. "JOHN" is a good representative of the present era, as there are few problems which are too deep for him to solve. Not only is his knowledge confined to the fields of civil engineering, but he is the type of man that bids fair for great prominence in the political and commercial world. Just what "JOHN" has chosen to do we are not able to say, but somehow we are led to believe that he is particularly interested in foreign affairs; CITNA for instance

The fellow who in a flash of genius dubbed Arthur "SONNY" made but one mistake. He should have called him "SUNNY," for never have we seen a man take things in a more cheerful, happy-go-lucky way than this same youngster from the state capital. In the fall of 1917 this boy was subjected to the virulent bacillus of Engineeribus Mechanicibus, and he seems to be one of the few mortals so constituted as to thrive and gain weight on this terrible affliction. When it comes to mechanicing, he's in a class all by himself. Always ready and willing to help others, he has earned for himself a reputation envied by many members of the corps.

Here we have another one of Roanoke's "fair" sons. The Magic City sends us some fine men, but few of them can equal "CHARLIE," for he is a man, a scholar and a gentleman of the highest type. "CHARLIE" chose agriculture for his life work, and from the "stars" he has made while in school, he will make good and even better in the practical world. He is one of the few who has lots of good practical sense as well as theoretical. He has made many friends in school, and his only weak point is the fair sex, because he never lets them worry his mind, as far as we know. We do not know where "CHARLIE" will locate to pursue his career, but you can bet that he will make good wherever he is.

Kentucky is famous for its whiskey (?), fine horses, and other things. "Ed" is one of the other things. Ever since his "Raided" days, he has been known as "SUNSHINE" on account of his unflinching cheerfulness at all times, and we cannot think of a name which better describes him. "Ed" is one of the shining "stars" of the Civil Engineering Class and never fails to pull down a good grade on subjects which are "Greek" to the average student. "CROCKETT" also stars socially, as he is president of the German Club, and is as popular with the "fair sex" as he is with his classmates, which is the same as saying that he stands "ace-high" with everybody. From present indications "Ed" is going to practice civil engineering in Norton (?), but if there are any more men like him in Kentucky, we can only hope that we shall meet them.

Ladies and gentlemen, we here present the "champion Climax annihilator" of the southwest. Perhaps our freshman friends may not recognize "R. V." as a senior, since he is so quiet and unassuming and never tries to make himself known to the student body at large. Evidently he believes in the old adage that "actions speak louder than words," for he shows his true nature in what he does, rather than by what he says. Although his military ambitions are of a rather skeptical nature, we cannot blame him for this because you often find brains where chevrons are lacking, and vice versa. Here's to you, "R. V.," may there never be a dearth of "Climax" in your old home town.

"DAY" is one of those fellows who combine a practical education with a strictly technical one. He entered V. P. I. in 1915 and completed a two-year course in agriculture. After leaving, however, he found that rural life held no attractions for him, so he returned to V. P. I. in the fall of 1919 and matriculated in the course of Mechanical Engineering. "DAY" is a hard worker and really studies more than we think. Besides his many other accomplishments he is an excellent cornetist, and is one of the mainstays of the band. We are sure that "DAY" will make a great success of Mechanical Engineering, and we wish him the best of luck.

Behold our ranking captain—president of the corps—and one of the best men that have been sent from Techland in many a day. "CHARLIE" is one of those men that you instinctively like the minute you see them, and the more you see and know of them the better you like them. He has come to us from the Class of 1920, and we are very much indebted to them for the gift. A capable and heady engineer in the making is this boy, if ever we saw one, and we experience no anxiety as to his final attainment of success as we send him out into the great engineering world.

At the close of the war he returned to his Alma Mater to continue his education, and we are glad indeed to have his type of a man with us. "HANDBOOK" is not the most studious member of his class, but he has become an authority on practically any subject in the Mechanical Engineering course. "If you don't know, then ask 'Grayson.'" Here we present "JERRY," a "scribe" in every sense of the word. A charter member of our class, out of school for one year, and yet graduating with two degrees. It sounds like impossible, especially when we know that Norfolk produced him—but why censure him for this? Haven't we heard that Norfolk is the "Garden Spot of the East"? So far as we know, "JERRY" has but one fault, but a fault as large as the universe—women. You can depend upon it, if he is not "toddl'ing" to his own tune of "They Go Wild, Simply Wild Over Me," that he is talking about that girl in "every part." We predict for this genius, however, a great future; provided he does not fall a victim to Cupid's subtle arguments.

Here we produce the maximum in size of our noble class. Not only is "NELLIE" a heavyweight in the eyes of the most unobtrusive observer, but his everlasting smile carries with it equally as much weight. It was way back in the days of the "paddle rule" when this curly-headed, blue-eyed child became a charter member of our "hoodlum" circle and he has been with us ever since. His willingness, and congeniality, combined with his wit have won for him a place of distinction among us. "NELLIE" is a good student and has the practical side to back up his theories. Possessing that sterling quality known as a "good mixer," a keen sense of humor and a happy disposition, we know that he will make friends wherever he goes, and good fellowship chalks up ninety per cent of success.

At the beginning of his junior year he entered the service of his country and saw active service in France. When the war was over he returned to Tech and resumed his studies as a member of the '21 Class. "FEREBEE" takes a great interest in his work and gives promise of becoming one of our country's foremost Mining Engineers. We feel, however, that he will not be able to leave all of the "fair ones" who are interested in his welfare to seek a fortune in some far-away mining town. Although not a charter member of the 21 Class, "FIELDS" decided to cast his lot with us at the beginning of our junior year, and since that time has diligently pursued his studies in the Mechanical Department. "FIELDS" was a salty, hard-boiled scrubber-of-the-decks in Uncle Sam's navy during the recent World War, and claims that he learned a great deal about "Hydraulics" at this time, a fact which has helped him a great deal in his study of this subject. "G. When we first heard of "FRANKLIN" he was making a reputation down at New London Academy as the one-armed marvel of interscholastic baseball. In spite of this handicap, "FRANKLIN," through his hard work and earnest endeavor, has mastered other situations as easily as he "lines them out" on the baseball diamond. If there is a man in our class who deserves an unusual amount of credit for an excellent record in every department of college activities, that man is "FRANKLIN." He is a leader among the agriculturists, being president of the Planters' Club and the Horticultural Society. "SKINNY" is one of our "out of military scribes" who has lived most of his time at V. P. I. over in that sainted and hallowed haven known as the "Flats." His accomplishments are varied--athlete, singer, and writer; or in other words, shortstop, solist and sporting editor of the Tech. There is just one little thing that places "SKINNY" in a class all by himself, and that is his trousers (just a minute before you draw conclusions). His hobby is the style of the day which manifests itself in his trousers, which assume an extremely abbreviated English cut. In fact, no matter where you see him, one is reminded of the nifty cut shown in a Hart, Schaffner & Marx sample book. With his congeniality, good looks (?), sincerity and that winning smile he cannot help but succeed; and the best wishes of the class go with "SKINNY."

For three long years "WALTER" fell not before all fair charms, but upon becoming a senior, the "Love-Bee" stung him deep and hard. Perhaps this explains his numerous week-end trips during the past session. "WALTER" is another of our promising young electrical engineers, and if he accomplishes his work of the future as easily as he has mastered his college subjects, he should experience no difficulty in rising in his profession. During the past four years "WALTER" has made many friends among his classmates and the corps at large, and the fact that he is vice-president of the German Club demonstrates his terpsichorean and social qualities. Our only worry is the fear that "WALTER" will have formed a life-long partnership before this book comes from the press. Otherwise, we predict a brilliant future for him.

"RUBE," as he is called at Tech, hails from Warrenton, or some place closely situated thereto. "RUBE" is tall in stature but broad in mind, as he has shown us during his four years in our midst. We attribute some of his height and strength to the good exercise he got in his rat year while carrying trunks, water, etc., to the fourth floor of "Hell's Half Acre." In "RUBE" we have a perfect Tech man. He has been out for athletics and has taken part in every move that tends to put V. P. I. on top. When it comes to friends, there is not a man in school who has any more real friends than he. "RUBE" has never had great military ambitions, but we can't blame him for that, as some of our greatest men have never had any "white" on their sleeves. We predict for "RUBE" a great future in the electrical engineering world, and Tech should feel proud of sending forth such a worthy engineer.

Out in Tennessee they called him that "wonderful-looking, curly-haired man," and we have heard rumors that the ladies always requested him to lay his cap beside the pitching mound in the last two innings of every ball game. As a southpaw of Class A rank, "Bob" has made a reputation for himself while at Tech, and as captain of this year's baseball team we are looking for him to bring home many a victory. "Bob" is equally as good as an outfielder or twister, and as a hitter of the .300 class. After missing a year of college, "Bob" fell in with the '21 Class, and additions of his type are always welcome. We have heard that "Bob" is going to electrify the city of Memphis after his graduation, and wherever he goes, the appreciation of a college which realizes his value as a student and athlete is sure to follow him.

Although "Hornie" is a product of Roanoke, from present indications it appears that he will pursue his engineering profession in Lynchburg, as he seems to think at present that his chances in the Hilly City are better than elsewhere. In addition to his achievements in the field of poetry, he has won great renown because of the fact that he is the only full-fledged "professor" in our class. About the time that term grades are posted, a number of "stars" will always be seen in "Hornie's" crown, as he is one of those fellows who make a small amount of study accomplish a great deal. No one knows "CHARLIE" but to like him. A more congenial, happy, good all-around fellow never came to V. P. I. His twinkling brown eyes, curly black hair, and bewitching, good-natured smile make an irresistible combination which wins the admiration of men and the adoration of women. It was not until his senior year that "CHARLIE" realized that engineering held nothing in store for him, and that his calling was towards industrial work. It was then that he forsook his old course of study to take up Industrial Education. He has not exactly decided what phase of "I. "RALPH" decided back in 1917 that Virginia Tech should be his future Alma Mater, and we who have been his friends feel that we have profited by his decision. "RALPH" is another one of those boys whom you have to know well before you can fully appreciate his sterling qualities. "RALPH" stands well in his classes, in spite of the fact that a large part of his time is taken up with dancing and other social activities. He is also a basketball player of no mean ability, being one of the star forwards of the Junior Varsity team during the past season, although it was his first year with the squad. "RALPH" will always be remembered by his classmates as a man whom they were proud to have numbered among them.

Among "SKINNY's" many attainments, we might mention—but why begin? Time and space are limited, and our vocabulary is not but SO good. Suffice it to say that "SKINNY" is right there with several varieties of goods, each 100% proof. A piano-tickling lizard, he has starred on the Tech Orchestra for four seasons, and we point to him with pride when "I. E." is mentioned. "SKINNY" is an all-around good fellow that you can't get mad with, and don't want to get mad with anyhow, and wouldn't get mad with if you could—you know the kind we mean. His ever-present good-nature has won him a host of friends, and their good wishes follow him in his chosen profession.

Keyville certainly placed herself on the map when she sent her worthy son "RAY" to V. P. I. In him we have found a combination of those qualities which make a well-rounded man. A leader by nature, popular because of an unusual personality, unconsciously cheerful and loyal, "RAY" has won his way to the hearts of everyone. Not is he popular only with men, for his many friends among the members of the "fair sex" hold him high in their esteem. "RAY" has diligently striven to master the study of scientific agriculture, and we feel that with the knowledge which he has gained, combined with the natural attributes which he possesses, will go a long way towards the building of a successful career in future life.

"Joe" entered V. P. I. in the fall of 1916, but as he was absent from school during the session of 1918-'19, he lost a year, and fell in with our class at the beginning of our junior year. "Joe's" chief pastime is wending his weary way along the "Huckleberry" tracks to visit in his native town of Christiansburg. However, we have often been lead to wonder if the town is the only attraction, or if there is some fair maiden who anxiously awaits "Joe's" return. He is another one of the stars which adorn the Civil Engineering ferment at our institution, and we feel sure that he will continue to shine in after life.

"J. B." has the distinction of being one of the youngest members of our class, and we are expecting great things of him. We feel that he is the man who has been called upon to put Gordonsville on the map and that it won't take him long to accomplish this task. He spends most of his time reading the "Cosmo," but at the end of the term his grades are even better than those of most of his classmates. "JONKEY" is a shark when it comes to playing tennis, and if Tech stages any contests this year we are sure that he will be one of our representatives. Taking him all in all, he is one of those fellows whom we greatly admire, and we will always remember how his optimistic outlook on life has helped us over the "rough spots" during the past four years.

"Spotswood" hails from Law Mass, Va., the only town on the map contemplating the immediate installation of an aerial delivery system of new main street cars. We are indeed proud of this member of our class, for not only is he the Earl of Spotswood, but he is also the King of Law Mass. But why had this mighty hero? "Kite" has been connected with the Y. M. C. A. since his first year, and helped very materially in bringing this organization up to its present high standard here in Tokeham. On account of the fact that he is very quiet, we cannot give any firsthand information. However, we did notice a little package in the mail addressed to him not long ago bearing the return address of a jewelry company in Philadelphia and we drew our own conclusions. Conservators but popular, conscientious and diligent, and a friend to everyone in the hall we can say of him. Success is his, he has had to grasp it.

"Cecil" is a product of the Capital City and is one of those easy-going fellows who never seem to worry and is forever radiating good cheer and fellowship. For three years "Cecil" lived the life of a private—and then, without warning, he became "Lieutenant Lancaster"—virtually overnight. Geologically speaking, he could find imperfections in a perfect crystal and trace a volcano to its lava bed. Don't get the idea that "CECIL" is a "Dill"—he is not, and his military honors were acquired by a recognition of a true and unassuming merit. "CECIL" was once accused of being lazy, but was too indolent to discuss the matter, so the subject has gradually faded into the background. Universally liked, a good mixer with a good line, we predict that the profession of metalurgy will get a rich addition to its numbers when "C. J." carries away the "sheepskin."

Our Chemistry Department has had many would-be chemists in its halls, but never before have they had such a wonder as "IZZY." He is a student who is never satisfied with what other chemists have discovered, so during his last year he has revealed what is considered as a marvel in the chemical world—a latherless soap. He is as proud of his discovery as a baby is with a new toy. Not only does "IZZY" believe in chemistry, but he is also a musician of many instruments. Although he has played in the Band for three years, he is a chemist by profession and a musician by environment, so there is little chance of his starving to death. "IZZY" is a true friend and excellent pal, and we sincerely hope that he will have the successful career which he deserves.

Any time, any place you meet him, he has that same old smile that would win the friendship of anybody. To see him is to like him, because "Bob" is one of those men who is always happy and ready to lend a hand or heart to anybody. It is useless to say how many friends "Bob" has at Tech, because everybody here is his friend. "Bob" has chosen Mining Engineering as his profession and he is sure to make a great engineer. His only stumbling block is the fair sex. If he doesn't get his daily from Richmond, Sweet Briar and several other places, he thinks his life is a wreck. But this one obstacle will soon be removed when he finds the "right one" and his life will beam on with its bright sunshine.

"JACK" is one of our favorites. His good humor and agreeable disposition, together with his remarkable personality, make him always a man to be welcomed everywhere. His home is in Lynchburg, right in the shadow (or shouldn't we say the sunshine) of R. M. W. C., and we are inclined to believe that his associations there with the fairest of Virginia's fair has had a decided and very desirable effect upon his very nature. "JACK" was a corporal here at Tech, once upon a time, and before him lay what seemed to be a rosy military future, but somehow he incurred a dislike for military and chose the irresponsible life of the ranks. But this year we see him forge ahead—voted by the corps to be the most military private. To us "JACK'S" future seems bright indeed, for we know that his great resourcefulness will enable him to attain any high mark in life that he may set as his goal.

Here we have "MERRY," the jolliest of us all. He is indeed a remarkable man in that during his four years here at Tech he has never for a minute been in an ill humor nor seemed a bit ruffled. "CHARLIE" has a wonderful disposition and a personality that is an inspiration to us all. But we must not give the impression that "MERRY" is frivolous, for such is not true. He is a man of great business and executive ability, as evidenced by the fact that he has held many offices of responsibility here at college. He is popular because he is genuine and because he is a man through and through. We feel that these sterling qualities will be the means of opening to "MERRY" the doors of success in the business as well as in the social world.

"MIKE" strayed from the fair valley of the Shenandoah to our little village of Blacksburg in the fall of 1915. At the end of his freshman year the call to arms met with a ready response from "MIKE" and he spent the next two years on the Mexican border. In 1918 he received a commission of second lieutenant in the Field Artillery, and after the signing of the armistice he returned to his Alma Mater. So far as we know "MIKE" has never been charmed by the rustle of silk, and he is one of our class to whom V. P. I. as a co-ed institution will hold no charms. "SAFFOLD" came to us from Martinsville, and we have since learned that the above-mentioned village is quite capable of producing some worthy sons. Militarily speaking, the "down in the flesh" to "Sus" was the daily "fall in" and "fall out," mostly "fall in," whereupon he managed to "check out" during his junior year and has since been "out of military." As such an admirer of civil life, it almost goes without saying that "Sus" has chosen for his career the branch of Civil Engineering, and we are told that he can do more tricks with a transit than a monkey can do on nine miles of grapevine. We are also told that a certain miniature may be found somewhere "around" Harrisonburg, and as the old saying goes, "two heads are better than one," we feel safe in predicting that his future holds nothing but rosy prospects.

The rival cities of New York and Fredericksburg are having quite a discussion at present as to which of them "Bob" rightly belongs. The latter is the town of his birth, while a certain lady of the former bids fair to govern his future. In presenting "CITUNK" to our kind readers we feature his agricultural and military ability as being second to none in our midst. "Bob" is one of those fellows whose very disposition radiates good-natured fun at all times, and we will be slow to forget the old "steam-pipe" episode in "Cutty's" military class. Always ready and willing to do favors for his many friends, cheerful and good-natured wherever he may be, we will miss "Bob" more than we can tell when we come to the end of our college days.

Here we present "Ned," the "outcast" of our class, our guide and our envy. Little did we think four short years ago that the noble Class of '21 would produce another "Harrison Fisher" or a second "Howard Chandler Christy." But such, gentle reader, is truly the case. Casually glance over the pages of this book and notice the neat little "E. K. M." in the corner of most of the drawings. Then gaze upon the counterpane depicted at the top of this page and you will see "Ned," whose hobby is art and to whom drawing is a second nature. However, "Ned" declines to commercialize his art, as the field of Chemistry holds greater attractions for him. Although we know that the profession of Chemical Engineering profits greatly by this decision, we also realize that Art is being a talented worker. All in all "E. K." is an all-around good fellow, a hard and diligent worker, and his modesty and conscientiousness only go to exemplify the age-worn saying that "still waters run deep."

If all of Suffolk's native sons are like "THEE," Suffolk is certainly fortunate. When he is not arguing (No, he doesn't argue ALL the time), he is extolling the virtues of his native city. We have to hand it to "THEE," though, that he is the most sincere fellow we ever saw, and anyone who is fortunate enough to call him "friend" can depend upon "THEE" at all times. "LOOTNENT" is one of the athletes of the class, and has been our star "south-paw" twirler ever since his sophomore year. "POCHLMANN" is one of those fellows who will cause his biographer much trouble. It requires a boring insight and the reasoning of a "Sherlock Holmes" to properly interpret his characteristics. Entering Tech as a senior, he has only been with us one year, but in that short while he has made a name for himself. Thermo never jarred his equilibrium, which goes to show the presence of gray matter. Steam engines looked as simple in their make-up to him as a chorus girl, and military passed over his head without disturbing a hair. "POCHLMANN" has done much in his short stay here to rejuvenate our wireless plant, and to him belongs much credit for his untiring efforts in the "wireless slack." To be busy is his whole pastime, and with his tenacious habits, nothing short of success seems destined for his future.

Four years later, and we behold the finished product—a military, agricultural and social figure in our college life. "CHARLIE'S" only worry at present is whether he will give his life to the pursuit of agriculture or military, and we realize that in either case the "fair ones" will come to worship at his throne. "CHARLIE'S" popularity among the (supposedly) "fair sex" is only exceeded by the esteem in which his classmates hold him. "PAT" is another "out of military" member of our class, and devoted the time in which we drill, and shoot, and hike, and (censored), to making "two stars" on practically every subject. If a senior is to be judged by his "fluent line" of talk, one would never think that "PAT" is to get his "sheepskin" in June, because his words are few and seldom spoken—merely another believer in the adage "that actions, rather than words, display the true nature of the man." "Milk" is another product of Blacksburg High School who has made good, not only in athletics but also in all other phases of college life. We remember him as a guard over whom opponents failed to gain. We also remember him as a student who never failed to make good in his classes, and as a general, all-around fellow whose equal is hard to find, we will never forget "Milk." He does not have much to say, as he seems to think that "Silence is golden." However, when "Milk" does talk, you can bank on there being earnestness and sincerity in every statement. He is a member of our Civil Engineering Class, and although he does not specialize in "star gazing," and might even refuse to turn his transit on a "modern Venus," we feel sure that the world holds much in store for him outside the realms of stars and Goddesses of Beauty.

 1920-21—Second Lieutenant Company "B";
 Civilian Club; A. I. B. E.; Masonic Club;
 President Cosmopolitan Club; Episcopal
 Club.

"SCOTTY" did not fall in with us until after Christmas our Rat year, and we well remember the reception which the burly "sophs" gave him upon his arrival. While we were enduring the torments of S. A. T. C. life, he was a full-fledged corporal in Uncle Sam's regular army, but after the signing of the armistice he returned to school and has been very much with us ever since. Coatesville, Pa., is the home of this young electrical engineer, but he expects to seek his fortunes among the mountains of West Virginia. During his four years with us "SCOTTY" has come to be one of the most popular men in our class, and exactly seventy-nine members of the Class of '21 wish him happiness and success wherever he may go.

Animal Husbandry Norfolk, Va.

1917-18—Private Company "A": Vice-President of Class; Norfolk Club; Class Football; Track Squad; Cadillon Club.

1918-19—Corporal Company "A": Secretary; Treasurer Norfolk Club; Cadillon Club; Track Squad.

1919-20—Private Company "B": Vice-President Norfolk Club; Cadillon Club; Assistant Manager Football; Assistant Manager Baseball; Patton Angles; Track Squad.

1920-21—Private Company "B": Choir Leader; Patton Angles; Norfolk Club; Manager Baseball Team; Athletic Council; Monogram Club; Leader Cadillon Club.

This energetic, handsome lad hails from the "garden spot of the East," commonly known as Norfolk, and during every day of his four years at V. P. I. the student body has been aware of the presence of their cheer leader, "SHERMAN," and his pep. He is simply wrapped up in Virginia Tech, and has always taken a very active part in the promotion of college spirit and in the advancement of athletics and other college activities. He is widely known as one of the social leaders at V. P. I., and has gained the reputation as being the best dancer in school. "SHERMAN" has chosen agriculture for his profession, and in years to come we expect to hear of him as one of the largest planters and one of the best authorities on farming in Tidewater Virginia.

Agriculture

Appomattox, Va.

- 1917-18—Private Company "C", Lee Literary Society; Planners' Club; Troop Squad.
- 1918-19—Out of Military; Lee Literary Society; Planners' Club.
- 1919-20—Out of Military; Lee Literary Society; Planners' Club; Secretary-Treasurer Horticultural Society.
- 1920-21—Out of Military; Planners' Club; Secretary-President Horticultural Society; The Hoop and Horn Club.

The historic city of Appomattox claims "SMITH" for its own. Fresh from the fields overrun in days of the past by the troops of Lee and Grant came this young seeker of agricultural lore. Four years in our midst and "ERNEST" is ready to enter upon an agricultural career which, if high grades and hard work stand for anything, should indeed be exceptionally prosperous. Always ready to put forth his best efforts upon any task assigned him, possessed of a never-failing good nature and carrying a vast store of technical knowledge of things pertaining to the culture of the fields and the "vamping" of the opposite sex, Smith has made a reputation for himself among his classmates. He expects to make a conquest of a certain portion of Georgia upon graduation, after which he will be free to advise the farmers of our state upon any question which may perplex them.

1917-18—Private Company "B"; Secretary of Class.

1918-20—Out of Military; Varsity Track Team.

1920-21—Capt. of Military; Varsity Track Team; Mobsigant Club.

In 1918 "Dick" graduated in Two-Year Agriculture, and since that time has been agricultural instructor in one of the high schools of our state. This year, however, he decided to return to school in pursuit of a degree in Agricultural Education, and we are delighted to have him with us again. For two years "TISINGER" was a member of our track team, winning his monogram as a pole-vaulter, and therefore we are doubly glad to see him return this year, as he will undoubtedly again be a great asset in field events. "TISINGER" is a man for whose future we do not fear, in view of the fact that he has already demonstrated his practical ability in the work he has chosen to pursue.

1918-20—Sergeant Instructor Infantry Unit R. O. T. C.; Photoist Club; Leo Literary Society.

1920-21—Sergeant Instructor Infantry Unit R. O. T. C.; Vice-President Camp Devens Club; Secretary-Treasurer Animal Husbandry Club; Masonic Club.

"SARGE" was originally of the Class of '20, but he lost a year while in the service. He consequently joined us at the beginning of our junior year, and has since then proven himself a worthy addition in every respect. "TRAYLOR" hails from the "Cockade City," occasionally referred to as Petersburg, and it has been rumored that he intends establishing a peanut farm in that vicinity very soon after graduation. "SARGE" is known to every member of the corps as a hard and diligent worker and a man who never leaves a thing half done. Always cheerful and always willing to help the "down-trodden," earnest and sincere, we know that he cannot help but succeed.

1919-20—First Sergeant Company "C"; Executive Committee of Corps; Second Vice-President; Cadet Club; Varsity Basketball; Varsity Baseball; Athletic Association; Athletic Council; President Underclassmen's Ball.

1920-21—Captain Company "C"; Executive Committee of Corps; President Cadet Club; Varsity Basketball; Varsity Baseball; President Monogram Club; Business Staff "1921 Bugle"; Salem Club.

The Class of '21 had hardly made its debut in Techland before we began to realize that "NORMAN" would prove one of those valuable kind that make a worthy addition to any class. "NORMAN" is an all-around Tech man, and during his four-year stay here has gained for himself an enviable record in practically all phases of college life. Athletics is a part of his nature and basketball might be termed his middle name. Militarily speaking, "J. NORMAN" is a member of the noble eight—a captain, and we wouldn't be surprised to see him wearing the olive drab some day very soon. If a college career is any indication of a future, "NORMAN's" is quite a bright and rosy one, and in saying this we are taking into consideration that he is a "rackster" from way back, both by mail and rail.

ROBERT WRIGHT WARE

Mechanical Engineering Danville, Va.

1917-'18—Private Company "A", Lee Literary Society, Rappahannock Club.

1918-'19—Corporal "Band", Secretary Rappahannock Club.

1919-'20—Sergeant "Band", Vice-President Rappahannock Club, A. R. M. E.

1920-'21—First Lieutenant Company "A", President Rappahannock Club, A. R. M. E., Getman Club.

If you have never known this big-hearted boy, then you are certainly the loser. No one has ever become acquainted with "WRIGHT" without receiving a lasting impression of his superb friendship, sterling worth, and truthfulness of character. His splendid personality has won for him a very warm spot in the heart of each of his classmates. As a social star he is unsurpassed. His love for the fair sex is exceeded only by its love for him. For four long and happy years he has steered the Ship of Love successfully through the rough waters of the Rappahannock. Over the calm surface of the sea of the future we can see only prosperity and happiness awaiting him. In a world where merit counts "WRIGHT" will be easily recognized, for he is a man of ability, a loyal friend and a consistent worker. For such a man there is only success.

1917-'18—Private Company "C."

1918-'19—Private Company "C."

1920-'21—Second Lieutenant Company "C."

"Mike" says "That it is hard to keep a good man down, even when it comes to getting a commission in the military department." Although he regretted very much to leave the Royal Order of the Sons of Rest (Senior Privates), when duty called he went, and fulfilled his duties as a senior officer very well indeed. "MIKE" has won many friends while here, and we have yet to find anyone who knows him who does not like him. He belonged to the "older generation," but on account of serving Uncle Sam a year we had the honor of having him as a member of our class. Queer as it may seem, his desire is to go to South America to teach Agriculture, and we are sure that "MIKE" will show the people down there how to grow two blades of grass where they grew only one before.

1920-21—First Lieutenant and Assistant Adjutant "Batt"; "Virginia Tech" Exchange Editor; Cadet Club; Norfolk Club; Vice-President Masonic Club; President Episcopal Club.

Somewhere away back yonder in 1917, "Willie" left Norfolk and for the first time gazed upon the mountains of Southwest Virginia and the evergreen campus of V. P. I. In the four years that he has been with us he has succeeded in making many good friends—and no enemies! A hard, steady worker, he has always managed to remain well to the fore in his classes, at the same time finding time to get in touch with the various activities of college life as exemplified at V. P. I. In the four years that we have known him we have come to regard him more and more as a good, hearty friend, and it is with sincere regret that we see his graduation and break many of the close ties that have bound us to one another.

1920-'21—Second Lieutenant Company "D"; Cadet Club; Manager Varsity Football; Secretary-Treasurer A. K. M. E.; Monogram Club.

In the course of time many "Jims," "James," and "Jimmys" have come to V. P. L. but the Class of '21 claims the distinction of having the only "EPPA YEADON" who calls himself "JIMMY" for short. And, furthermore, we do not believe that any of V. P. L.'s "Jimmys," either of the past or present, could ever be any happier, any jollier, or any more well-met and popular than ours. Wherever you may come in contact with him—in class, on the athletic field, or in his own room—he always has a radiant smile to greet you and something humorous to say. Engineering as a profession has a great appeal to him, and into it he intends to cast his lot for life. Our best wishes for success go with him, because we feel that the future can hold nothing too good in store for our "JIMMY."

Mechanical Engineering Richmond, Va.

1917-18—Private Company "C"; Richmond Club; Henry Literary Society; Track Squad.

1918-19—Corporal Company "C"; "Virginia Tech" Editorial Staff; Order of Dials; Richmond Club.

1919-20—Battalion Q. M. Sergeant, "Staff"; Richmond Club; Cadillon Club; Navy Club; A. S. M. E.; "Virginia Tech" Editorial Staff.

1920-21—First Lieutenant and Quartermaster, "Staff"; President Richmond Club; Cadillon Club; A. S. M. E.; Athletic Council; Editorial Staff "21 Bugle"; Editor-in-Chief "Virginia Tech."

In spite of the fact that he is editor-in-chief of the "Virginia Tech," and holds various other honored positions in our midst, "JOHNNY" is as natural and unassuming as he can well be. He is never worried, smiles always, and is ever willing to be of service to anyone. No one ever enjoys a good joke quite as much as he, and it is just as great a treat to hear him laugh over some funny story as it is to hear him tell one. After graduation "JOHNNY" expects to put aside his pen for calipers and compass, to lay away his senior cape and don overalls, and to begin his upward climb to success as a Mechanical Engineer. Knowing him as we do, we feel sure that he will not stop short of the topmost rung.

1915-16—Private "Band"; Class Football; Pulaski Club; Leo Literary Society.

1920-21—Lieutenant "Band" and Chief Musician; A. J. E. R.; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet; Y. P. I. Orchestra; Orchestra Club; President Pulaski Club.

As a chief trumpeter, "Wirt" slides a wicked trombone. Returning from France, with three offensive stars on his chest, two service stripes bedecking his sleeve, and his trusty sliding tubs in his hand, "W. O." once more took his place in V. P. I.'s cadet band. Though rumors have been widely circulated that "W. O." has been seriously considering accepting the professorship of Electricity at East Radford State Normal, in view of his winning ways with the ladies, and that Ted Lewis and Art Hickman have been trying to sign him up as their trombone "jazzist," we have taken little stock in them, because we know that his highest ambition is to make good as an electrical engineer, and we feel confident that he will not allow anything to interfere with the attainment of this ambition.

 1920-'21—Captain "Band"; President Lee-
 Winscott Club.

"DeWitt Clinton," better known to us as "CAPTAIN," is one of our budding civil engineers of no mean ability. His efforts in behalf of the band have been unlimited and the results a pleasure to everyone. His ability as a musician is of the highest order, and as a mail clerk, no postcards went unread nor boxes unopened. Although "D. C." rules the Band with an iron hand, his absolute fairness and impartiality to all have won for him many friends. The welfare of his fellow students is foremost in his mind and their troubles are his. If "D. C." does not sign up with Sousa as leading cornetist of his world-famous band, we can see nothing but success ahead of him in the Civil Engineering World.

MILITARY

Major Forrest E. Williford, C. A. C.
 COMMANDANT CORPS OF CADETS

FORREST E. WILLIFORD was born January 22, 1882, at Coker, Illinois, where he received his early education. He entered West Point in June, 1902, graduating four years later as a second lieutenant in the Artillery Corps, and was stationed at Fort Edin Allen, Vermont. While at West Point he took great interest in fencing, and at one time was captain of the fencing team there.

In 1915 he attended the Coast Artillery School at Fortus Moore, Virginia, as a student officer, which course he completed as a distinguished graduate and was retained as instructor in "Artillery and Land Defense." During his stay there he was promoted to the rank of captain. The next year of his life was spent at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he received the degree of Master of Science in Electrical Engineering.

Three months after the United States declared war, he was ordered overseas for duty with the American Expeditionary Forces, and was made Director of the Trench Artillery School at Langres. For his efficient work and faithful service, despite the short duration of time spent overseas, Captain Williford was promoted in rapid succession to major, lieutenant-colonel, and finally to the grade of colonel in less than eighteen months. Serving in the grade last named, he was appointed Commandant of the Trench Artillery Center, Virey Vermon, France, with a command of 400 officers and 7,000 enlisted men. While in France he saw actual service in the Battle of Toul, Chateau Thierry and Argonne sectors.

Since September, 1920, Major Williford has been Commandant of Cadets at V. P. I., and notwithstanding the fact that he has been here but a few months, he has shown so that the combination of military discipline and reasonable freedom may go hand in hand. Because of his prompt and efficient methods, his approachable manner, and his fairness to all, he has won the respect and admiration of the corps, the faculty and all who come in contact with him, which will undoubtedly be crystallized upon further acquaintance.

MAJOR J. B. HASKELL, C. A. C., U. S. A.

Major Haskell is a graduate of the United States Military Academy and is a veteran of the World War. He was assigned to V. P. I. in the fall of 1919, and since that time has been in charge of the Coast Artillery unit of the R. O. T. C. Major Haskell has been very successful in his efforts to make the Coast Artillery one of the most popular units at our institution, and we sincerely hope that the school will be so fortunate as to retain his services in the future.

CAPTAIN J. C. SKUSE, Inf., U. S. A.

Although "Major" Skuse is an alumnus of Lafayette College, we feel that during his three years at Tech he has found a warm spot in his heart for V. P. I., and we are sure of the fact that no man was ever held in higher esteem by any student body. Captain Skuse is in charge of the Infantry unit of the R. O. T. C., and our "infantrymen" feel that their leader combines the qualities of a true soldier with those of a real man.

LIEUTENANT E. P. KETCHUM, Eng. Corps, U. S. A.

After seeing service overseas, Lieutenant Ketchum was detailed to V. P. I. in the spring of 1919 as officer in charge of the Engineering unit, which was established in the fall of the same year. While here Lieutenant Ketchum has shown great efficiency in his particular branch of the service and has won a high place in the esteem of the men of his unit and of the corps at large.

STANLEY B. SUTTON
Head Coach

Coach Sutton

THE college session of 1920-'21 brought to Virginia Tech a new head coach in the person of Stanley B. Sutton, formerly of Germantown, Pa. Before taking up his new position, Coach Sutton had, for five years, been Director of Physical Education at Germantown Academy. He had also been a teacher in the coaching school at Chataqua School for Physical Education, where he had been associated with many of the leading men in the world of college athletics.

Owing to the scarcity of experienced material, in practically all branches of athletics, Coach Sutton faced one of the hardest propositions ever experienced by a coach who attempted to turn out winning teams for his school. This fact was particularly evident in football. In spite of the fact that our light, inexperienced men were unable to win any of our big games, our team always made a creditable showing and was characterized by its clean, hard playing and the old Tech fighting spirit. The team showed the effects of good coaching, but the lack of weight and experience caused them to go down in defeat before heavier and more experienced rivals.

After the close of the football season, our Athletic Council decided to adopt a system of mass athletics, whereby practically every man in our corps would be given a chance to show his ability. Coach Sutton, due to his particular fitness for this line of work, was placed in complete charge of this line of physical training. His efforts have done much toward developing material for teams of the future, and for the physical betterment of our entire student body. For the first time in our history, Tech was represented by a wrestling team, which made a very creditable showing, and which we believe paved the way for boxing and wrestling as branches of Tech athletics.

On account of his ability as a basketball referee, and his thorough knowledge of the game, Coach Sutton was appointed one of the two officials of the Intercollegiate Basketball Tournament, held at Atlanta, Ga., under the auspices of the Georgia School of Technology. This was a particular honor to Mr. Sutton and to our college, as by this selection the leading teams of the country showed that they recognized in him one of the best officials in the game today.

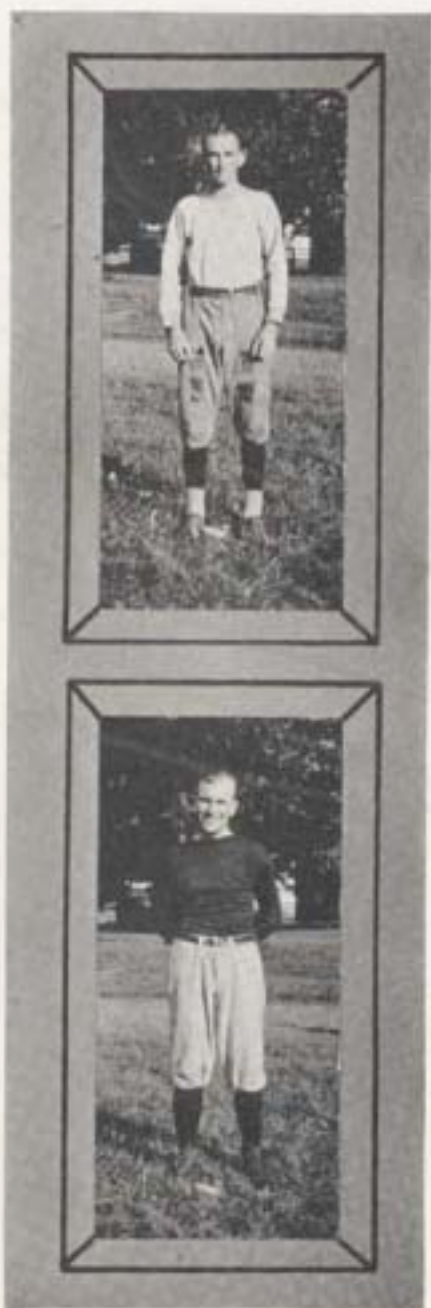

During the short time in which he has been with us he has won the respect and admiration of the entire student body, not only on account of his ability as a coach, but also because from the very first we were impressed by the fact that he is a man of the highest principles, and the better we have come to know him, the stronger has this conviction become.

W. L. ("MONK") YOUNGER

Assistant Coach

To the corps at large and the sport-lovers of our state, "Monk" needs no introduction. Upon the conclusion of a brilliant athletic career, during which he had been twice chosen All-South Atlantic end in football, Younger accepted a position as head coach at Hampden-Sidney College. After a very successful year at that institution, he was persuaded to return to his Alma Mater as assistant to Coach Sutton. "Monk" was head coach of our basketball team which conquered Penn State and the University of West Virginia, and as head coach of the baseball team we are sure that he will turn out a team which will be a credit to our school. "Monk" has always exerted his best efforts in any plan for the betterment of athletics at Tech, and we are looking forward with interest to his teams of the future.

B. C. CUBBAGE

Assistant Coach

In looking over last year's BUGLE, we found the prediction that "in the selection of Cabbage, Tech has secured one of the best men in the East, and that this selection will meet with the approval of all who are interested in athletic development at Virginia's Tech." Just one year later, and we are able to bear testimony that this prediction has certainly come true. During the past football season, the crack Penn State linemen demonstrated conclusively that his ability as a coach was not less than his ability as a player. Coach Cabbage possesses that rare combination of knowing the game, with the gift of being able to impart his knowledge to others. Cabbage is to have entire charge of our track team, and since he was also a track star at Penn State, we feel sure that our 1921 track team will be efficiently coached and trained.

"HENRY" REDD, Fullback

The tragedy of the 1920 season occurred when Capt. "Puss" Redd was forced to abandon his position with a broken arm. This accident, occurring before the first game of the season was played, deprived "Tech" of one of the most valuable fullbacks who ever wore her colors. In spite of his injury, he spent his time and talent in coaching new material and thus gave to our school several men who promise to be stars of the future.

"GEORGE" PARRISH, End

The close of the 1920 season found "Little George" holding down an end position on the mythical All-South Atlantic eleven. "George's" work was extremely good at all times; but his playing against N. C. State and V. M. I. was nothing short of phenomenal. As acting-captain of the team he displayed leadership of the highest type, and as captain of next year's team, we feel sure that he will even surpass his record for the past season.

"BILL" LYBROOK, Quarterback

In spite of the fact that he was handicapped by injuries in most of the big games, "Bill," by his sheer grit and determination, played the best game of his career. His generalship was good at all times, while his punting and broken-field running featured many of the games in which he played. "Bill" leaves us this year, and it will be hard indeed to find another of his calibre.

"HENRY" CRISP, Tackle

After playing in the backfield for the last two years, "Henry" was this year shifted to his old position at tackle. If possible, he has proved to be even greater as a lineman than he was as the star of the Tech backfield. This year "Henry" demonstrated just how the position of tackle should be played, always down under goals, often out-distancing his side, he was at his best in the Centre and V. M. I. games. We all agree with the football experts, who have characterized him as one of the greatest linemen in the South.

"TEX" TILSON, Tackle

"Tex" proved to be an ideal running mate for "Henry" and the two together made off-tackle plays by the opposing team almost impossible. "Tex" is one of those men who is always "in the game" from the kick-off until the final whistle, and his motto is "to get his man, and get him well." The big team found the Texas boy at his best, for the harder the proposition which confronts him, the more wholeheartedly he fights to bring about a Tech victory.

"DWIGHT" CARPENTER, End

In spite of the fact that he was handicapped by injuries the first part of the year, "Dwight" came back strong and proved to be a sensational player. Opposing teams found it almost impossible to circle his end, while many a back's will testify to his hammering offensive tactics. For a complete description of this end we refer you to "Bo" McMillin, the all-American halfback of Centre College. It is our sincerest hope that "Dwight" will be seen in a Tech uniform next season.

"RIP" WALLACE, Halfback

It can certainly be said of "Rip" that as a halfback he lives up to his name. Although this was his first year of college football, he proved to be one of the hardest-plunging and most dependable backfield men who has worn a Tech uniform in many years. When Lybrook was out of the game on account of injuries, "Rip" was transferred to quarter and in this position he proved himself to be a field general of no mean ability.

"HARRY" SUTTON, Halfback

"Harry" proved to be the sensation of the 1920 team. His wonderful broken field running was no less remarkable than his deadly tackling on the defensive. When "Harry" received the ball on the kick-off it appeared that he was trying to set a new record for the 100-yard dash, a fact to which W. and L. and N. C. State will bear witness. Give this Suffolk boy another three years of college football and he should prove to be another "Buck" Flowers, the sensation of Southern football.

"JOHN" MARTIN, Fullback

After playing at Hampton-Sidney last year, "John" decided that he would like to become a "Goldblie," and Virginia Tech profited by his decision. A plunging fullback who seldom failed to open a hole on the offensive and who, in barking up the line, met plays with a fierceness which drove opponents towards their own goal, "John" proved to be one of the most valuable members of the Tech backfield.

"GUY" RICE

End

"Guy" was one of the hardest workers on this year's team, and he could always be depended upon to give his best whenever he was put into a game. As an end, he was very fast in getting down the field under punts, and on the defense he could be relied upon to get his man. "Guy" is a good example of that old "never-say-die" Tech spirit which causes our teams to fight to the last, no matter what the odds may be.

"SAM" SHAEFFER

Halfback

"Sam" was the general utility man of the 1920 backfield, as he seemed perfectly at home in any backfield position. In getting down under punts and intercepting passes, "Sam" possessed an uncanny ability. A born fighter, always willing to give his best, this boy from Pennsylvania soon won the hearts of Tech supporters. "Sam" showed his best form in the Maryland State and Rutgers games, though at all times he proved himself to be a backfield man of great promise.

"BUTTERMILK" SAUNDERS

Guard

For the past four years, "Milk" has clung to Jaffer's motto, "They shall not pass," and a record of the past football seasons will show that few plays went over his guard. Though somewhat handicapped by lack of weight, his dogged determination and "never-say-die" spirit made him one of the most consistent linemen who has ever worn our uniform. "Buttermilk" is a good example of the true Tech spirit.

"HARRY" HARDWICK, Center

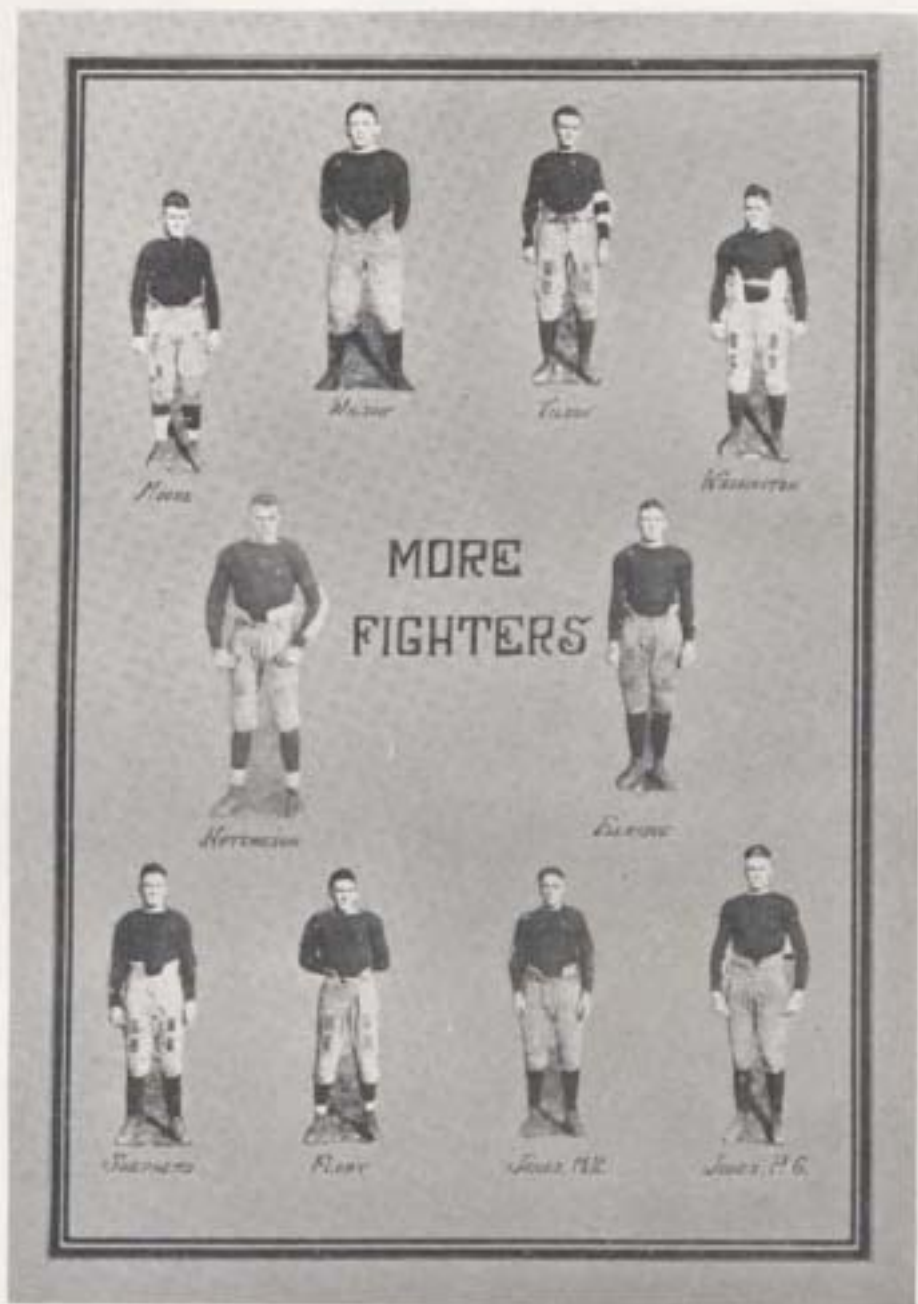

"Harry" is probably the lightest center in the South. He has shown us that it does not necessarily take a large man to play this position effectively. An excellent punter, and possessed of a marvellous ability to break up plays behind the opposing line, "Harry" has for the past two seasons been a mainstay of our team. He entered the V. M. I. game when he should have been in the hospital, and fought as only a Hardwick can fight until he had to be carried from the field. It is this spirit, no less than his ability, which we admire so much in his playing.

"FRANK" RESH, Guard

The South-Atlantic center of our 1918 team this year won a regular position at guard. "Frank" was one of the most aggressive of our forwards and could be depended upon to hold down his position on either offense or defense. We will long remember his method of shoving an opponent's head in the ground and meeting a play at the scrimmage line. We were glad indeed to see this Norfolk boy return this year, and we hope that he will be with us again next season.

"BILL" SHERENTZ, Guard

When we mention the Rutgers game, we immediately think of "Bill" for it was in this encounter that the Roanoke boy proved the mettle he possessed. Unusually fast for his two-hundred pound weight, "Bill" was often called upon to carry the ball from the fullback position, and proved to be an exceptionally hard man to stop. Coach Sutton selected this boy for a guard position on his all-South-Atlantic eleven, and we are all heartily in accord with his decision.

"PHIL" BROOKS, Captain
Guard

"Phil" has been a mainstay on Tech quints for the past four years, and his playing this year was even above par, which is saying a great deal, considering his performances of the past three years. One of the fastest guards in the South Atlantic, a hard fighter, and an unerring shot, "Phil" made an ideal captain. Although the smallest man on the team, he was able to take care of himself and the other fellow at all times, and his absence will be keenly felt by next year's five.

"GEORGE" PARRISH
Center

Not satisfied with being placed on an end position on the South Atlantic football eleven, "George," for the third time, was unanimously selected for the pivot position on the South Atlantic quint. His record for the season of 116 field goals and 116 goals from fouls, for a grand total of 348 points, speaks for itself, as his total amounts to over half of the total points scored by the entire team. "George" was the life of the entire team, and his unerring long-shots have many times spelled defeat for our opponents.

"DUSTY" RHODES
Forward

"Dusty," although primarily a guard, was this year shifted to a forward position, where his wonderful speed and accurate shooting made him one of the best forwards in the South Atlantic division. He was second high-point man on the team, with a season's total of 152 points. "Dusty" is another one of Bristol's contributions to Tech basketball teams, and the fact that he is well up to the standard is demonstrated by his being placed in a guard position on the South Atlantic five.

"NORMAN" WALKER*Forward*

The passing of the Class of '21 brings to a close the basketball career of "Norman" Walker. For three years he has been a member of the varsity five, and one of the most consistent, reliable and hardest-playing "basket hoopers" who ever wore a Tech uniform. "Norman" played what was probably the best game of his career against the "Golden Tornado" of Georgia Tech last, and his accurate long shots did much to bring about a Tech victory. Every season his steady work and dependability has aided materially in the success of our teams.

"SHERLOCK" HOLMES*Guard*

"Sherlock," after managing the team of last year and playing as substitute guard for three years, showed his true form during the past season, and proved to be one of the best stationary guards ever seen on a Tech floor. Many were the plays which ran almost the length of the court, only to be broken up by this guardian of our goal. His specialty was recovering the ball from the backboard and passing it out of the danger zone, and his wonderful all-around work placed him among the leading guards of the South Atlantic division.

"PAT" CARROLL*Forward*

"Pat" symbolizes in his play a fighting spirit and that overflow of "grip" which never acknowledges defeat. He received his early training at John Marshall High School, and last year was ranked at the top of prep-school forwards. Upon the strength of his exhibition this year, we feel sure that in "Pat" we possess All-South-Atlantic material of the future, and we hope to see him star on Tech basketball teams for the remaining three years in which he will be eligible to play.

"JENNY" WRENN, Forward

"JENNY" displayed some of his old-time form during the past season, and aided materially in making our season a successful one. A letter man on Tech quints for the last four years, and when he is in form, one of the sweet shots ever seen on the local floor. "JENNY" has certainly played a great part in the records made by our teams for the past several years.

"BRITT" BRITTINGHAM, Forward

Although not a letter man in basketball, "BRITT" was one of the chief understudies to the "big five," and with another year's experience he should make us a very valuable man. "BRITT" is one our our track stars, and shows the same speed on the floor which enabled him to "run away" in the dashes. Go get 'em, "BRITT," we are banking on you for two more years' basketball.

"JOE" HODGES, Center

"Joe" was captain of the Junior Varsity five, and upon several occasions was called upon to act as center for the "big team." His work on the Junior Varsity was of such a calibre that we are looking forward to his being a varsity man next year, and we are sure of the fact that he will give them all he has whenever the opportunity presents itself.

Prospects for the Coming Season

IN view of the fact that the "21 BUGLE" must go to press before the first game of the coming baseball season is played, it is our desire to give our readers an idea of the probable personnel of this team and to venture a prophecy on the outcome of the season.

A great deal of the credit for a winning team must go to the man who works behind the bat, and in this position we feel that we are especially strong this year. Kibler, star third-sacker of the past two seasons, has been called upon to don the padded glove, and all who have seen him work as a catcher will agree that his superior is hard to find in college baseball. As understudies we have Callahan of Lynchburg, who shows class in spite of lack of weight, and Todd of Richmond. Slemph, who looked good at the beginning of the season, is ineligible for play.

Out in the center of the diamond "Bob" Harvey, captain of the team, "Thee" Myrick, who specialized in 1- and 2-hit games last season, and Hubert Harrelson, who comes from John Marshall High with a wonderful reputation and who looks good to us, will bear the brunt of the burden. "Norman" Walker, letter man of last year, Cousins of last year's squad, and "Rat" Rutherford of Bristol will run the "big three" a close race and should put out some classy twirling before the year is over.

At first base Turner of Richmond seems to have outdistanced all competitors, while the keystone station will of course be held by the old reliable "Phil" Brooks. This is "Phil's" last year of baseball and we are looking forward to a great season for him.

Castle, a former Davidson star, is the pick of the shortstops, and in him we feel that Tech has secured a valuable addition to her infield. Finks and Lush, first year men, look exceptionally well as infielders and, together with Rice, will decide who is to handle the "hot corner" left vacant by Kibler.

"Rip" Wallace, of football and Hampton league fame, Peavler, another Bristol boy who is showing the goods; "Harry" Sutton and "Harold" Williams will insure a good trio of outer gardeners, while Williams, Dyer and Stull are also making bids for the outfield positions.

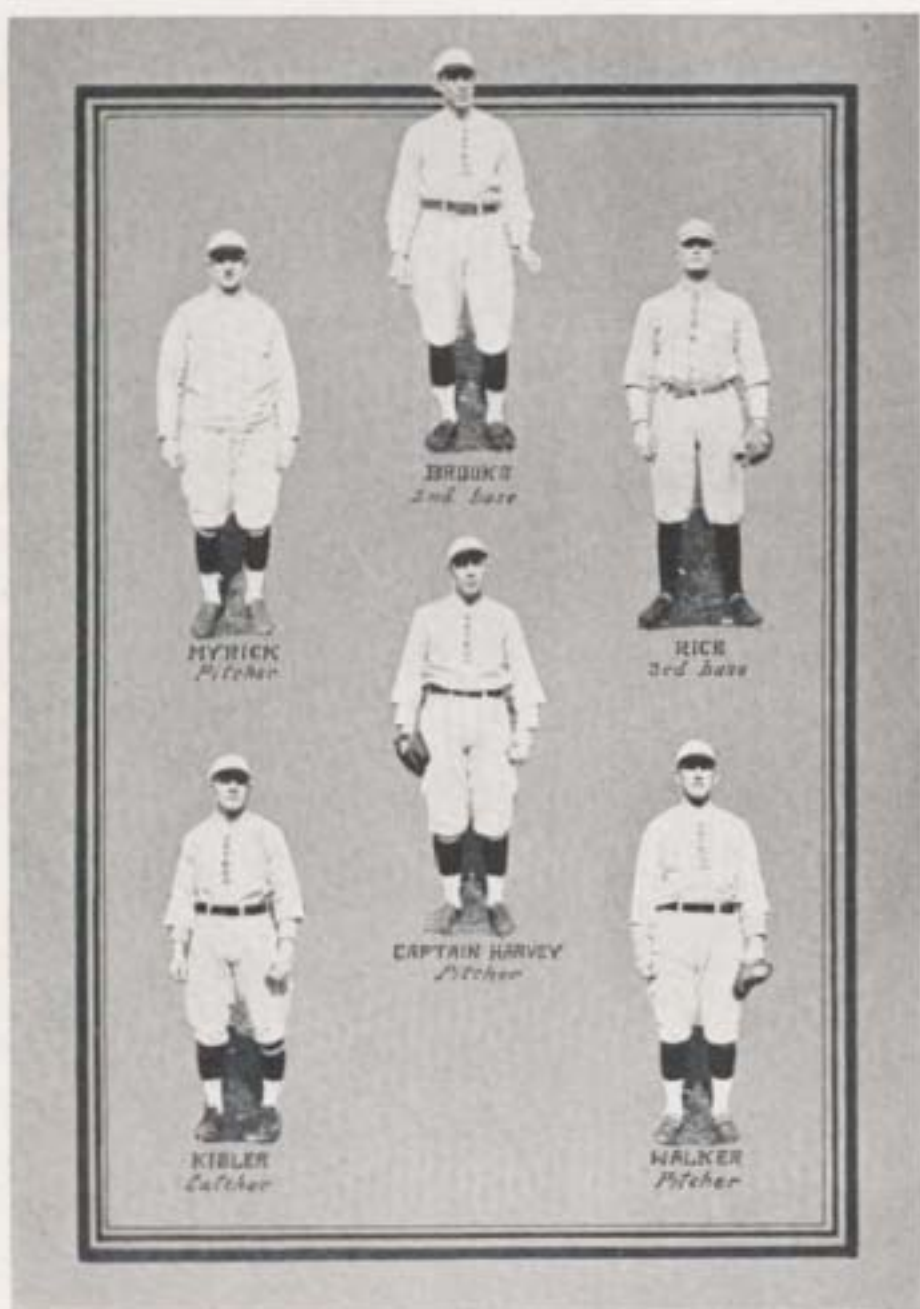

For this team, Manager Seelinger has arranged one of the best schedules ever attempted by any Tech team, and we wish to congratulate him upon his efforts. We are confidently expecting these wearers of the Orange and Maroon to experience an unusually successful season.

 April 29-30—Pentathlon relays at Philadelphia.
 May 6-7—South Atlantic at Washington.

Track Prospects

THE first track meet of the season was held with Penn State on Miles Field, March 26th, and although we were defeated by the score of 74 to 52, the showing of our team was extremely satisfactory. Penn State has what is probably one of the best track teams in the East, numbering among its members such men as: John Romig, intercollegiate cross-country champion; Harold Barron, indoor champion 70-yard high hurdles, national outdoor champion in 1915 in 120-yard high hurdles, and in last year's Olympics he finished in second place, being the first American to finish; Heston Hile, 220 yard junior national champion in the hurdles; and Charlie Way, all-American halfback.

The outcome of this meet was doubly satisfactory when we consider that four college records were broken by our athletes in this meet. Francis Byrd broke the college record in the shot putt with a throw of 38 feet 4 1-8 inches. The old record in this event was held by Sheretz at 38 feet 3 inches. Captain Carpenter next broke the javelin record with a "heave" of 155 feet 6 inches. The old record of 146 feet 6 inches was made in 1919 by Parrish and Will. Carpenter a few minutes later broke the broad jump record with a jump of 21 feet 9 3-8 inches. However, he only held this record for a few seconds, as Byrd made a jump of 22 feet 3-8 inches immediately after Carpenter had established his record. The next record to fall was that set by Cottrell in 1916, of 51 1-5 seconds for the 440-yard dash. Woodward set a new record of 50 2-5 seconds in this event.

In the track events, Brittingham and Woodward are showing their old-time form in the dashes, and Boynton, Flory and Bowles seem to have outdistanced the field in the hurdles. Among the distance men, Gale and Watkins are making good time in the two-mile run, while the "milers" consist of D. T. Painter, Newman and Wayman. "Cotton" Roden is running the half-mile in good time.

We are especially strong in the field events this year, with such men as Byrd, Carpenter, Tisinger and Sherertz. Byrd, Sherertz and McCraw are the best of the shotputters, while Byrd, Dawson and McDorman are throwing the discus. In the broad jump, we have Captain Carpenter and Byrd, both of whom have broken the old college record in this event, while Johnson is developing into a broad jumper of no mean ability. In the pole vault, Byrd has bettered all of his former attempts by making 10 feet 9 inches, with Tisinger running him a close second. The high jump is well taken care of by Byrd and Seelinger, and Carpenter is breaking all records with the javelin, with McCraw and Hodges following close behind.

Manager Meriwether is to be congratulated for the schedule which he has arranged, and we are sure that our team will acquit itself well in every meet.

The
TECH MINSTRELS

The Poet's Lament

I love you so, old V. P. I.

That when I go, I'll leave a sigh.

I've been, I own, a Bolshevik;

I've sometimes shown a bitter streak.

I've howled about your sorry clime

And "cursed you out" full many a time.

I've murmured at each little rick

And gumbled at the men-hall gink.

Toward revivle and military

No doubt! I've scented a bit contrary;

But, just the same, "Virginia Tack,"

I'll say you are the best "By back."

I've come to love the entire place.

All that the thoughts of you embrace.

I love the solemn step of march

Beneath the Alumni Gateway arch.

(For the sake of rhyme). I love to stalk

Up and down the old Elm Walk.

And adore the monument to our dead

Who on the fields of France have bled.

I love to linger in the store.

But I love the battered guard-room more.

Oh! I love your barracks and "scabion"

And the men who have hatched them.

I love each nail in your splintered floor,

And every hinge on your sagging door.

Every brick in your homely walls.

And every mark in your hallways walls.

I love every broken window pane

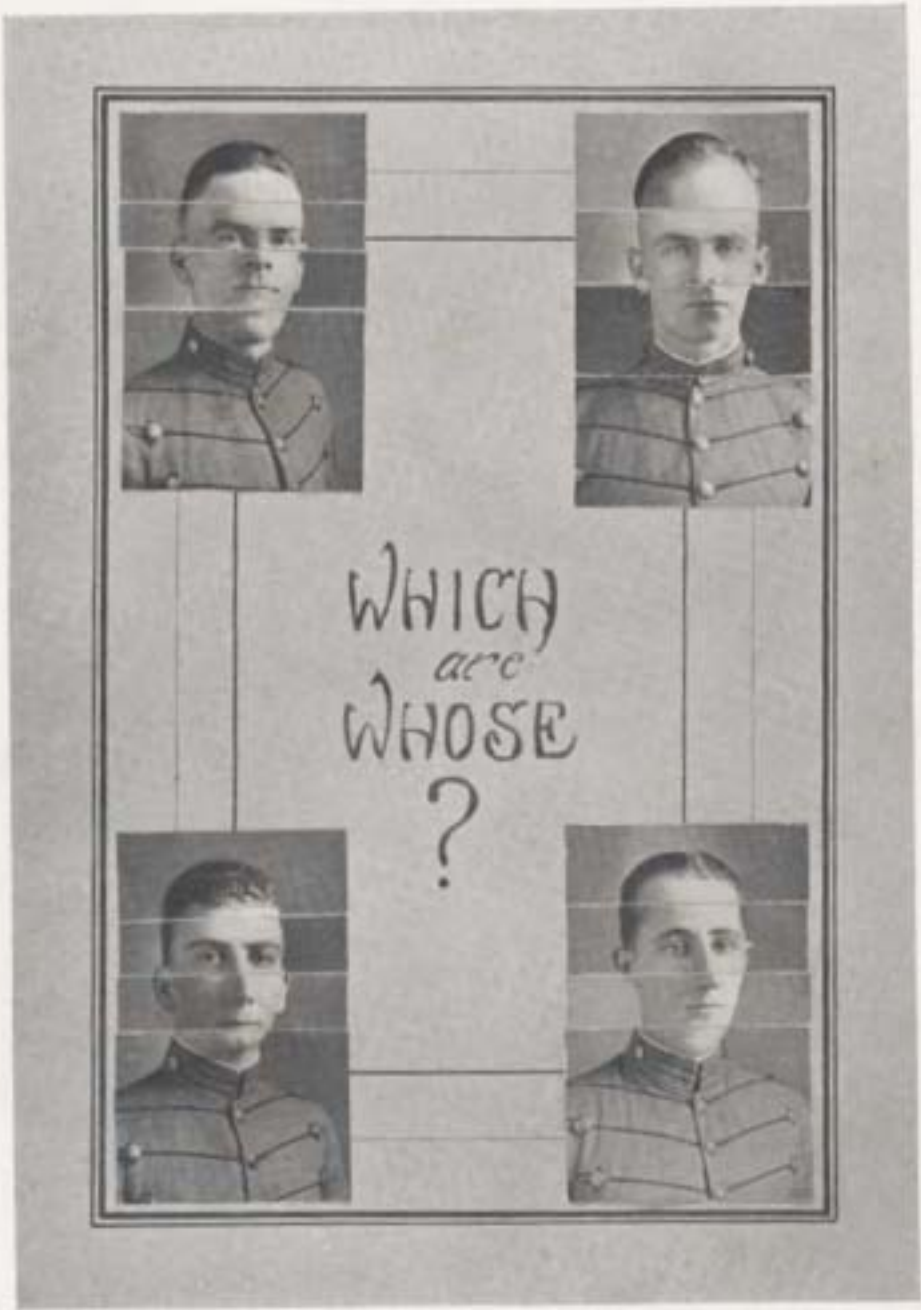

In every room so bare and plain.

Oh! I hate like the "denier" to say goodbye

To you, Alma Mater, my V. P. I.

E. H. H., '21.

SHAM BATTLE

The Senior Alphabet

- A is for Andrews, Albert and Abbie, it's never known if they have a bad habit.
 The first is a captain, the third is a "Ten," the other's a Prince to a limited few.
- O B's there are many, dare's Bertram and Bell, Blackburn and Best and Brackney as well.
 The Boynton twins, who took in the band, and Bradshaw, boss of the Bobbersk clan.
- C is for Carpenter, of athletic fame, and Cragman who's sought by many a dame.
 Carlman, made up of grit and some brains, chased a whole squadron of German airplanes.
- D is for Davis, the head of the corps, and Dawson, the author of handbooks galore.
 Sunshine Crockett from the wild, woolly West, and Clarkson and Cutler make up the rest.
- E is also for Eadson of Company F, she saddles both on his right and his left.
 Then there's Evans, and Eldridge, "Nellie," by name, whose singing is sweet, but good just the same.
- G stands for Gordon, a rube from the "sticks," and Greenlow, who leads 's the heart to say "six."
 Then there's Glenn and Gregory, Gils and Green, the last mentioned man a great engineer.
- The H's are six, Harrell is first, next Harry, bearing a deadly threat.
 Hackingp and Hughes, and then as a rule, "Shanny J." Hyslop on a piano stool.
- I is for Ingram, fair lady's desire.
 J is for Jewell, but not a sapphire, it is also for Jaeger, initialed J. B.
- While K is for King of Company "E."
 L is for Lanning, he thinks he's Carson, Lancaster wonders just how he can do on.
- M is for Morrison, Michael and Mauer, Masse and Meriwether, huggy but thinner.
 "Thee" Myrick could make Mark Anthony jealous, and Morton's a regular artist they will on.
- "Jack" McCarger born nothing but red. He's lary a h—, but he's one of our best.
 P is for Paulsen, B. D. and D. T., and for "Tony" M. Park, B.S. by degree.
- "Labe" Parley, who caters to women and wine, hands out a wonderful marvelous line.
 Poshmann knows most everything there's to know, and the girls think that Pond is one peach of a bean.
- Perrow and Penigrew are the last of the P's,
 Q is for Quality, they have this degree.
- R is for Rice, not the kind that we eat, and for "Steam Roller" Redd, who knows not defeat.
- S is for Seelinger, little but loud, and Scooby who shines in any old crowd.
 Saunders and Saub, bring us down to the T's.
- The best is for Tinsler, a number of ease.
 It's also for Tregler, our infantry "Sarge."
- W is for Warren, little but large.
 Walker and Ware, Winchuk and Wynn, and Williams, whose voice is nearly a sin.
- Wirt with his trombone helped win the war, when he sooted the enemy sought safety afar.
 Wolfe is only by name, he's a lion by nature. He'll place the Band in the Legislature.
- X is for excellence of the Class of Twenty-one.
 They have even dubbed us "hoodlums" in the papers here and there,
 But we're a merry bunch of fellows, with the aim to do and dare.

THE HORNET

OR

LITTLE STINGS AROUND THE CAMPUS

(THE HOODLUM EDITION OF THE BUCKLE)

Hoodlums

I guess you have read the story, or rather the lies, I should say,
That were published in various papers of a certain memorable day,
How some of our hoodlum class (yes that is the name they gave)
Bent nearly to death, near strangled the breath of a freshman, noble and brave,
Oh! the lies that were published about and the stretch that arose in the air,
And the trial we had condemning a lad for an accidental affair!
How they wanted to send four honorable men to serve their time in a jail,
For a streak of luck in a blow that was struck by a paddle, wooden and frail,
How we won the trial in an honest style, but how, I'm sorry to say,
The prejudiced jury gave vent to their fury and threw the evidence away,
I'll never forget how the jurors sat with their dumb and ignorant stare,
As they cheered and yelp and believed the Ral, as he stood before them there,
Oh! the things that were said and the line that was spread made the court a laughing bazaar,
And the myth that rose brought wretched blows from the crowd, upon the bar,
Oh! who could know who struck the blow that caused all this wretched affair,
But it's history now and you've read just how four men were sentenced to jail,
They didn't know much about having and such, so we'll forgive them now that it's done,
But the HOODLUM CLASS is the name that stuck to the CLASS OF TWENTY-ONE.

A Water Analogy

Did you ever see a tugboat struggling fiercely through the fray,
Dragging Tong a great big steamer with its cargo, up the bay,
With its little flock of lifeboats that drag helplessly by its side,
And the tugboat bears the burden as it ploughs into the tide.

This is the water analogy of a poor man's married life,
He is like the little tugboat and the tramp ship is his wife,
Then we have the little lifeboats for the kids, the most support,
To be a married man, you see, it takes a damn good sport.

The Ballad of "Growley" Shultz

The usual crowd of girls were gathered in the old bookstore,
As "Growley" Shultz began a tale of days that were no more.
"Now, listen, girls," old "Growley" said, "I'll tell you of the time
When V. P. L. was a he-man's school, and co-eds were a crime.
Red-blooded men went out from here and won great fame for Tech,
We had the best teams in the land. The BEST, I say, by heck."

"I used to tell those same men stories of things both rare and wild,
But now I have to change my tales to suit a girl or child.
There used to be a Rat Parade, and great it was to see,
But, girls are girls and can't be boys, so now it cannot be.
Our football men were men indeed, old 'Henry,' 'Sol,' and 'Monk,'
But now we have a croquet team and other feminine bunk."

Old "Growley" raised his hand an instant and stroked his old gray hair,
Paused a moment and then went on, while every girl did stare.
"They trained those men," then he said again, "to be men from the start,
Their Rat year was a year of trial and took a stalwart heart.
We didn't have a crowd of women forever shedding tears,
Instead of female farmerettes, we turned out engineers."

"The May Day fete may be a treat, for girls and little boys,
But bring me back the old sham-battle, the cannons and the noise.
Two thousand men, or thereabouts, responding with a will,
Went out from Tech and made a wreck of poor old Kaiser Bill.
But in the war we had last year with wild old Mexico,
You knitted sweaters, gloves and socks to hurl against the foe."

"Now, hear me out; I'm really sick, of all this feminine rot,
We used to drink 'corn licker' here, but where's your feminine lot?
Just look at the stock here in my store of feminine lingerie—
Corsets, stockings, and other things, that make me blush to see.
The V. P. on your sweaters now, has a strangely mocking sound;
It's not the same good old V. P. George Parrish worn around."

"Oh! Bring me back those good old days, those grand old days of yore,
When 'George,' and 'Phil,' and 'Bobunk' Kent hung round the old bookstore,
They wore the good old Blue and Gray and not these gingham dresses,
And they were full-fledged engineers when they got their B.S.'s,
Where once our halls resounded with old 'Tech Triumph's' refrain,
Or the thrilling words of old 'Play Ball' rang out again and again,
You holler now: 'Oh rooti-ti-toot for Burrell Normal Institute!
We hope we win, we surely do,' and a lot of other mush to boot."

"We used to swear like regular guys, but now that all is said and done,
I tremble when you say 'Dawgone! Oh, dern it all, ain't we got fun.'
You've heard now, girls," old "Growley" said, "the first true tale I've ever told,
And, in conclusion, let us pray, bring back again those days of old."

Those Chaperones!

HAVE a girl at ——— College, and I called her up one day. I knew the place was tight, but they took my breath away. The matron, or the guard, whatever they call the jailer there, answered in a deep gruff voice. "guess she must have meant to scare. "Yes, I'd like to speak to Betty," thus I stated my desire, and I told her all my history, but she still thinks I'm a liar. She said, "Just wait a minute." But it was an hour, I bet, before she yelled "Hello, are you still there waiting yet? Now its strictly against our rules to let you speak to any dame, but if you have a message, I'll be glad to deliver same." "Oh, I'd love to call on Betty, haven't seen her for a year. Can't I speak for just a second into Betty's own sweet ear?" Something tells me that she cursed me, but she finally gave consent, since I came from out of town and maybe seemed a decent gent. "Hello, is that you, Betty? Say kid, you're looking sweet; if you can slip away from college, just name the place to meet. You say there's not a chance, that they watch you too darn close? Then we'll have to drag a chaperone, and I always did hate those. Yes, I hate the blooming chaperone, artful, spying dame, such an awful lot of red tape just to take you to the game. Well, I'll see you later, honey, and I'll bring a friend along, pick him out another girl, m-m-m-m-, goo'by, solong."

So we hired a limousine and they met us at the gate, thus we took the girls and chaperone to the best game in the state. Old V. M. I. was lucky and we lost by just a hair, then the jazz band started hurling syncopation in the air. We thought that we would dance, but the chaperone woke up, and she carried out her duties in a manner most abrupt. She watched us like a hawk and marched us off the floor; we took another taxi right in front the dance hall door. I hardly had the chance to hold fair Betty's hand, and the look in Betty's eyes was almost all that I could stand. How I wanted her alone, for I had so much to say, so I prayed then for a blowout or a puncture on the way. But nothing awful happened, and we rushed right back to school, I talked about the weather 'till I felt just like a fool. We said good-night and parted, while the sentry supervised; but I'll fox her yet, just watch them, they'll surely be surprised. But the chaperone still follows, every place we go: "Oh, ain't it awful, Betty, to spend an evening so."

The Grit-Cutter's Blues

(With apologies to Edgar Allen Poe)

Once upon an evening dreary, while I wandered weak and weary
 Up and down the trodden grit-path, where I'd wandered oft before,
 In my mind I slowly pondered o'er the time that I had squandered
 Up and down this same old grit-path, past the guardroom and the store,
 With my gun upon my shoulder, past the guardroom and the store,
 Cutting grit, and nothing more.

Ah! Distinctly I remember, on that first day in September,
 How the buckberry left me and departed with a roar.
 Eagerly I ventured fearless; faced the trials of hazing tearless,
 But all this was years ago, years that almost number four,
 As I then took up a life, that I'd never known before,
 Military to explore.

I have long since lost my "dills," cutting reveille and drills,
 I have never worn a chevron—just a private, nothing more.
 I have felt the harsh sensation, once or twice, on strict probation,
 And as in the days of yore, demerits still come by the score,
 And my grades are sinking lower, always sinking, sinking lower—
 A Senior Private, evermore.

Vamps I Have Met

(With apologies to Rudyard Kipling)

I've taken my fun where I've found it,
I've rogued and I've ranged in my time,
I've had my jokin' of overboard
And four of the lot were prizes.
One was a girl from Sulina
And one was from V. I. C.,
The third was a queen from Hollin,
But Randolph-Macrae for me.

The first was a little devil,
She "suffed her own," they say,
I told her the old, old story,
And she stole my heart away,
But that was long ago,
At the end of my freshman year,
Her love grew cold and turned to snail,
And I learned about women from her.

I shifted my amorous eyes
To a little brunette that springs
With coal black hair and a handsome pair
Of eyes that would win a king,
She sanged me and she left me;
I drowned my ears in beer,
But, forever growing wiser,
I learned about women from her.

You ladies wear the damndest clothes,
I swear it is a shame,
You bob your hair and roll your hose,
But who is there to blame?
Dreams ever growing shadier,
At last have reached your knees;
I often wonder how you stand
The cold and wintry breezes—
You wear them lower down in front,
I pass you on the street
And dread to think just what would happen
If both extremes should meet.
Poor little girl, it makes me sad,
You look so frail and small,
And dress as if you haven't

I found one another at Hollin,
Diree me, that girl was keen,
I along the same old line
And won this little queen,
But soon we had a quarrel,
Her wrath I did incur;
She broke my heart and she left me,
And I learned about women from her.

I thought for awhile that I never again
Could fall in love with a girl;
But I met my fate at the college gate
And entered another world.
She is my inspiration
My heart and soul to stir,
Of all the rest I love her best,
I'll owe it all to her.

And the end of it's sitting and thinking
And writing this miserable rhyme,
But you error can tell 'ill you've tried them
And "traded a Yankee-dime."
There's a girl somewhere in the world
Who is decent, honest and fair
For every man who can honestly stand
And prove that he's on the square.
E. H. H., '21.

Oh! Girls

Any decent clothes at all,
I'd save some more and sell a lot
I'm not supposed to know,
But hasn't got the heart for that,
Because I love you so.
I cannot say that I would wish
For fashion's obsequies—
I only wish the Lord would give me
Ten or twelve more eyes,
For history repeats itself,
So all great men believe;
I guess we're going back a bit
And copy mother Eve.

After the Dances

There were girls and girls and girls,
Lovely, wondrous, charming girls.
All were stunning, some were killing,
Every look was simply thrilling
As they lured us, vamped us, won us
With their dimples, eyes and curls.

There was pep and joy and laughter
Ringing up through every rafter.
For the joy of youth was rife.
Everyone was full of life
As Dan Cupid proved to many,
That of hearts he is a grafter.

All that's left us are our dreams,
Just a hazy shell, it seems.
Only last night all was bright,
Pretty girls and soft moonlight.
But, alas! All now is over
And our blueness seeks extremes.

Oh! what wondrous things are girls,
They fill our heads with giddy whirle.
Man has always raved about them,
Who would want to live without them,
Even though they vamp and craze us,
Make us food for little squirrels.

The Skin You Love to Touch

Of all the skins you love to touch,
I'll mention only three.
The first is that of the girl you love
So wonderful to see.
You love to rest your bearded chin
Against her rosy cheek,
And feel the thrills that come with love
To both the strong and weak.
Then, there's your rival in the game;
Gee, how a man does gloat
To sink his fingers in the skin
Of that man's dirty throat.
But still there is another skin—
It means so doggone much—
The Sheepskin that I get in June,
The Skin I long to touch.

E. H. H., '21.

Oh, woman, with your vampish ways
You set my heart on fire;
You even make me believe you when
I know you are a liar.

True Love?

I loved her true and she loved me, too.
Such joy, such wonderful bliss.
I lived for her and for her alone,
And our lives were just

L T
I H
K I
E S

But late one night in the pale moonlight
I saw her bestow a kiss
On another man who held her hand—
Now our lives are just

My Rosary of Dreams

There's a girl in my heart, my thoughts, my dreams.
She is wonderfully fair and sweet;
Far more beautiful than Helen of old,
And I long once more to meet
Her, some fair night in the pale moonlight
By the side of the old sun-dial,
To press her hand once more and watch
The dimples in her smile.
To hear her gentle, rippling laugh
And gaze into her eyes;
Those eyes so clear, so deep, so blue,
Yes, bluer than the skies.
To watch the moonbeams as they play
And shimmer on her hair,
To breathe the sweet perfume that she
Breathes on the still night air.
I long to live again that hour,
So long ago it seems,
The dearest jewel of them all—
My Rosary of Dreams.
This, of the love I bear for her
Is just a little hint;
I would I had the power, the words
*To put it all in print,
That's why I haven't tried to write
A sonnet or a song
To the sweetest girl in all the world,
I fear I'd get it wrong.

Some Party!

IT was just after the completion of my freshman year, during which time I had made a diligent study of The Police Gazette and Uncle Billy's Whiz Bang, that my friend, Bill, persuaded me to go with him to the coming-out party of our most notorious debutante of the season, Miss Ima Phool. We called up a couple of female lounge lizards and had no trouble in getting dated up for the affair. I was young and ignorant even in those days, but after many outbursts of disgusted profanity I managed somehow, with the aid of a shoe-horn and other accessories, to get dolled up in one of those full-droop suits, you know—the kind with a couple of long-drawn-out coattails, a shirt front like a whitewashed fence, and a pair of pants that had me panting before I got them on. Well, we called for the girls and they knocked us cold when they hove into sight in their beautiful evening negligee. They were very attractive and fetching, in fact, they would have attracted ripe eggs or fetched lemons in any crowd. I'll never forget Maggie—she was my girl—as she launched forth in her daring costume, with her stockings—I mean her hair—rolled over her ears like a couple of inverted waste-baskets. Oh, she was wonderful; I wonder every time I think about her. We had to take a street car, as my Ford was in the livery stable at the time, and arrived at the scene of action just a hair late, but the hostess met us at the back door with a grin on her artificial countenance like the ones you see over the hardware counter in any five and ten cent store. Over in one corner a couple were wrestling. I found out later they were dancing, but I started in to cheer the girl to victory. The man in the conflict had a half-Nelson on the frail little girl, but she had succeeded in getting the stranglehold on him, and it seemed almost an even match. My excitement got the best of me, however, so I yelled out, "Lean over, kid, and get the toe-hold on him," and it was then that my friend rescued me from exposing my utter ignorance by dragging me out of the room. Along about midnight they brought in the refreshments, which hadn't been fresh for a year, and the guests, who had been guessing for some time just when the cats were coming, grabbed their spoons, and the whole scene reminded me of my boyhood days down on the farm when Dad used to feed the hogs after a famine. It was just about this time that something happened. Hezzie Black, who was sitting on my immediate left, somehow got her chewing gum mixed up in the luxuriant masses of Hazel Green's crowning glory and Hazel became so incensed that in the next few seconds nice, gentle words gave place to well-practiced terms of world-wide reputation. The whole crowd got their dander up and in less than ten minutes we had the darndest hair-pulling contest you ever saw. Oh, it was awful. False hair was everywhere; I stepped on a pair of false teeth and the d—things bit me. I shudder when I recall that wild fracas. The party continued in this condition until the ambulance, the fire wagon, and the patrol rolled up in a body. The local custodians of peace and good will then proceeded to clean up the place with their shofales and blackjacks, but Maggie and I were always lucky, so this time we succeeded in sneaking out through the cellar. Upon arriving at Maggie's home she dug out a bottle of "home-brew" and we proceeded to drown our sorrows. That's about all I have to say about the party. Oh, yes; I almost forgot. I did go down to the jail the next morning and bail Bill out.

Impressions of a Rat

THE MESS HALL.

HE Rat learns many things when he enters college, not least among which is the manner in which custom and inheritance are displayed in the dining hall. As he watches the hungry multitude feed their faces, he says to himself, "There ain't nothin' like efficiency, especially during competitive feeding," and immediately sits down to formulate rules whereby he may acquire the necessary dexterity and skill in order to compete with his upperclassmen. These rules he summarizes as follows:

- 1.—Mufflers may be attached to soup spoons if the noise in the neighborhood is objectionable.
- 2.—Soup spoons and forks held in the closed fist and perpendicular to the entrance to the alimentary canal can not slip.
- 3.—Peas can better be eaten with a knife if they are first mixed with mashed potatoes.
- 4.—If for any reason food gets lodged in a molar, it may be released by the use of a fork.
- 5.—Bread, cake, and other dry foods may be secured most efficiently by spearing them with a fork. An elastic attachment to the fork would prevent undue exertion.
- 6.—Sufficient clearance is provided for every operation if the elbows point due east and west. This prevents encroachment of the fellow on either side.
- 7.—One bite on each side of the face, followed by one huge gulp, is sufficient to hermetically seal each mouthful of food.
- 8.—Never stop eating while attempting to secure additional helpings of food.
- 9.—The spoon in the coffee would be prevented from slipping if securely held between the thumb and forefinger.
- 10.—The knife and fork may be placed in the form of tent poles against the sides of the plate as a signal that you have finished.

The Rat soon learns certain expressions which tend to produce efficiency. "Get your foot off the grease," "Slip me a hunk of bunk," and "Shoot the gravy," are a few of the expressions used to prevent monopoly, and to cause the circulation and distribution of essentials.

In order to aid in the distribution of foodstuffs, the Rat suggests that the steward erect a zeppelin in the dome of the hall, fill this with liquid food and have a rubber tube leading from it to each place at the tables.

A FRESHMAN'S NOTES TAKEN IN ORIENTATION CLASS

Not a Chance

There upon the stairway in the dimly lighted hall,
 With her laughing eyes she told me that a sweet good-night was all,
 How I pleaded, how I begged her, while beneath her magic trance,
 For a single little kiss, but she murmured—
 Not a chance.

And in the days that followed, when I loved but her alone,
 'Till she finally said "I love you" in a low and trembling tone,
 And she asked me very sweetly with a pensive little glance,
 If I could ever love another, I answered—
 Not a chance.

Ah, how well do I remember all the things I've told above,
 In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love;
 But in the fall and in the winter, when one sickness of romance,
 And one asks for a divorce, the judge will answer—
 Not a chance.

For the mind of man is lazy, there are endless dreams that haunt,
 We are never quite contented when we get just what we want.
 Oh, I ponder and I wonder if some happy circumstance
 Will ever make us quite contented; here's the answer—
 Not a chance.

Woman

(Printed by special request of Jeremiah Eleazer Foy Gamma McGreggo)

Woman, woman, thankless thing,
Deadly reptile, full of sting,
Never happy, always sad,
Never time to make one glad.

Ever ticking, yet so dead,
And so full of mean deceit,
Always lying, never true,
Ain't that right, I'm asking
YOU?

Reply to McGregor's Ode on Woman

Why should your life be wasted in despair
Because you were jilted by one so fair?
Your cheeks will surely grow pale with care,
When you alone have all your loveliness to bear.
Then you will repent in full, if not in part,

All you have said to break some poor woman's heart,
And as you grow old, you will wish you had sold
The TRUTH to that fair jester of thine,

A window hid from view,
A sight inspecting officers,

Ode to the "Huckleberry"

She ripe and she smooth, she rarer and she tarter,
She heavier and the lighter, and lighter fire in the air,
She moaner and she greener, with many a thirder,
Her life has been loaned to the pilliter mob.
She grinds her teeth, with each heart-rendering sob,
She sneezes and sobezers, "Oo! Gee, what a job!"
They call her an engine, but that is all bunk—
She's nothing at all but worthless old junk.
When her boiler takes out, and her cylinders rust,
And the fireman gives up his job in disgust,
When her bell rings out with a death-like knell,
We'll know the old "Huck" has gone to h—

First Signs of Spring

Little bags of H₂O
Come floating through the air,
They come from windows, roofs, and stoops,
They come from everywhere.
They come at most unusual times,
When one has on his "Gills,"
They strike the most beloved cushions,
They strike the college "pills."
Yet "Ladies" have a meaning which
The knicker knows to sing,
They usher in a time divine,
They are first signs of spring.

Impressions of a Rat

THE MOVIES

The Rat attends the movies. The term "movies," he says, does not always refer to the picture, because everything in the house moves (except the air). When he sits down he must be careful that the seat does not move from under him. Waste of all kinds, especially rolled up newspapers, bags, crackerjack boxes, and popcorn keep moving from one side of the hall to another.

The pictures, dimly visible beyond a dense smoke screen, are, in themselves, not bad. The plot of the picture, generally filled with "sob stuff" and "bunny hugs," is many times lost in the din of stamping feet and cries of "hold 'em," "hold 'em," whenever the film slips and before the operator has had an opportunity to adjust the same. Just as the villain is about to feed the baby to the stone crusher, or as the heroine is about to be reduced to longitudinal sections by being tied to a log which is being fed to a buzz saw, the film breaks. The Rat suggests that perhaps this is even too much for the machine to stand, and expresses his sympathy for the audience.

The Rat appreciates attending the movies, nevertheless, not so much for the picture as for the excitement caused by the boisterous conduct. Asked why he attends the pictures, he generally remarks, "Because I enjoy the fresh air after I get out."

College Activities

It is very evident that the Military Department does not appreciate the efforts which we make to improve the spirit of the school as a whole and the student body in particular. Such playful antics as throwing dynamite out of the windows and shooting bullets through the smoketack are not performed merely for the satisfaction of those participating in these pastimes, but are intended to brighten our happy existence by lending an atmosphere of Christmas or Fourth of July festivity to our everyday life. But, instead of complimenting those responsible for these deeds, which, in a noble spirit of self-sacrifice, have been performed for the sole purpose of putting some "pep" into our otherwise dreary life, the Military Department gives the unhappy culprit the grand and glorious opportunity of "being on the inside, looking out"; or, in other words, they presume that he is so fond of the quadrangle that he doesn't want to go down town anyhow.

This misunderstanding should be cleared up, and we would suggest that hereafter the culprit should be presented with a leather medal, or a cactus kimono and be given a vote of thanks for stirring up some excitement.

Heaven Protect the Little Co-Ed

A maiden fair, who had a care,

Said to her mother one day:

"Dear Mother," said she, "just listen to me,

I crave a life that is gay."

So she packed up her bags,

With her feminine rage,

And the door-doo whistled and sped

She stopped on the sky at the V. P. I.,

An innocent little co-ed.

She said she had heard,

Pray pardon the word,

That the seas at Tech were fast,

So she entered the race at a killing pace,

While the folks at home were aghast.

Poor little fool, she was only a fool,

In the hands of a pitiless fate.

Just a rambling wreck from Va. Tech,

A lass. Alas—too late.

DREAMS

We need a midnight cabaret,

To while our time and care away,

With lots of snappy dancing dames,

Roulette wheels and poker games.

The're other things I might suggest,

To give this burg some added zest.

A musical comedy every night

Would help us fellows out a sight.

Pool and billiard rooms galore,

A barroom with its swinging door,

There we could drown each pain and shiver,

As of yore, is OLD GREEN RIVER.

The Red Book is a winner,

So's the Saturday Evening Post,

I love to read my Judge,

And to Life I make a toast.

Oh, I like to read them all,

But far above the rest,

Old Captain Billy's White Burg

Is the book I love the best.

SHLY CO-ED.

Moonshine Bill

Now, Moonshine Bill ran a private still
And he catered to V. P. I.

He used to fill each heart with a thrill,
With a drink or two our ears he'd fill

When our throats grew parched and dry.

We had only to wink when we wanted a drink,
For Bill kept a large supply.

Then our eyes would blink till we couldn't think,
And the silvery moon looked green, or pink.

As we let the world go by.

He pled his trade, till a plot was laid
By a traitor and a spy.

Poor Bill they slayed in the road they made.

He had only to wink when we wanted a drink,
For Bill kept a large supply.

WHAT!

Two big bears and a little bear
Went down to the bathing pool.

Oh, the day was grand and the weather was fair
And the water looked so cool.

Let us take a bath, said the middle-sized bear,
So the two big bears plunged in.

But the little bear left standing there
Looked on with a sickly grin.

"Oh, where is the soap?" the big bear cried.
"I say, oh, what do you hope?"

The little bear smally ventured, "What?"

And the big bear snared, "No soap!"

His heart was broken and torn and frayed
Beneath a frowning sky.

He ran a still back in the hill,
Although the state was dry.

With a boiler drilled he's paid the bill,
They stretched his whisky and life-blood gall,
And left him there to die.

Poor Moonshine Bill, with his mighty skill,
We'll miss him bye and bye.

They'll have their will till they get their fill,
They'll take away our drinks until
The whole d—— world goes dry—
And then, oh! Joy, good-bye.

E. H. H. 21.

AIN'T IT AWFUL, MABEL?

It was just the other night
That a wicked pen I showed

As I wrote to the one and only—
The girl I thought I loved.

I wrote my letter thusly:
"Please end this dread suspense
With 'I love you' or 'Please go to —'
And write at my expense."

And did she? Well, I reckon
When I popped that question at'er,
She showed just how she felt toward me
By writing back—the letter.

By writing back—the letter.

By writing back—the letter.

By writing back—the letter.

By writing back—the letter.

By writing back—the letter.

By writing back—the letter.

By writing back—the letter.

Girls, Here's Your Chance

Oh, she was wondrous fair and sweet, and pure as she could be,
 I looked into her eyes and knew that she was meant for me.
 She crept into my arms and gazed from out her liquid eyes,
 And they were blue and far more deep than the azure in the skies.
 Her soul was thining in those eyes as her ruby lips met mine.
 It was her first, and to my thirst for love it was like wine.
 I felt her heart beat 'gainst my own, her lashes on my cheek
 Were wet with tears of joy and love, no words were there to speak.
 The pent-up sweetness of 18 years she gave me in that kiss;
 An earthly paradise it was, to know such perfect bliss.

But that was years and years ago, almost forgotten now,
 I've kissed a score of times since then, and so has she, I trow.
 But youth is made for loving, and though I may forget the rest,
 I know the first kiss was the sweetest, the purest and the best.

Author's Note: The above is pure imagination. I'm still unknissed.

Taps!

THE last note of "Taps" has sounded for the 1921 BUGLE, and, although we realize the many imperfections in our work, tonight we cling, almost dreading, to the sincerest hope that the "Taps" which is now being blown for us does not signify the burial of our fondest hopes and ambitions. Need we say that these hopes and ambitions have been to produce a book not unworthy of the highest ideals which our institution fosters? Tonight our task is completed and our fate rests in the hands of a fair and impartial jury. Expectantly, yet fearfully, we await its verdict. We only say in our defense that we have put forth the best efforts of which we are capable, and we are ready to abide by the decision rendered, whatever that decision may be. In our parting words to you, may we request that your criticism be open and your judgment merciful.

1921 BUGLE STAFF.

Reveille

The 1922 BUGLE, a dream of three years, has been started on its course into the realm of the material. The Class of '22, fully realizing the advantages of an early start, has set to turning the cogs in the machine which is to produce their contribution to the series of annual publications of V. P. I. Next year will be a memorable one in the history of the institution. 1922 marks the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of our school. These fifty years have been marked with progress which, we believe, has been excelled by no school in the country. Each passing year has left its landmarks. Notable among these landmarks is the progress typified in the BUGLES of the past. Have they not approached a limit of perfection? Our ideal is to make the 1922 BUGLE one that will imbibe the true spirit of Virginia Tech. An annual of such a character is destined to be a success. We have ample opportunity to note the possible mistakes and shortcomings of previous years and hope to profit by them. The 1922 BUGLE has been launched with a great spirit of enthusiasm, and with the support of the corps and of the future Senior Class, we make our bid for success.
