

Elizabeth R. Bullock - Vita

Elizabeth Raub Bullock was born on November 29, 1972 to Rebecca and Edward Bullock in Wilmington, Delaware. After relocating several times, Beth's family settled outside of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. She graduated from Avon Grove High School in 1990, and enrolled at Millersville University of Pennsylvania in the same year. Beth received a B.S. degree in Chemistry with a Russian minor in 1994, graduating cum laude with departmental honors.

In 1994, Beth entered the Ph.D. program in Chemistry at Virginia Tech, major professor: Dr. Karen J. Brewer. During her graduate career, she received a DuPont Predoctoral Scholar in Residence Fellowship, which allowed her to teach at Sweet Briar College for a semester. Following the completion of her graduate work, Beth will be employed by the American Chemical Society (Publications Division) in Columbus, Ohio.
