

Vita

Rajiv Khosla

The author was born in Allahabad, U.P. India, in 1970. He grew up in Allahabad and graduated Valedictorian from High School in 1987. He received a Bachelor of Science Degree in Agricultural Sciences, from Allahabad Agricultural Institute, University of Allahabad in 1992. During his Bachelor's degree program, he received the National Award from the Indian Council of Agricultural Research, for high merit and Scholarship.

He enrolled in the Master's Degree program in Soil Physics at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University in August 1993. He finished his Master's degree in 1995 and started working towards Ph.D. degree in Soil Fertility and Management in the same department. While completing the degree, he performed various research and teaching assignments, including teaching the Basic Soils Laboratory and was recognized with the Outstanding Teaching Awards from the College and University. His research was also recognized with the several awards and honors including the P. Howard Massey Food and Nutrition Scholar Award, J. Fielding Reed PPI Fellowship, and C.I. Rich Fellowship for graduate studies and research. He also served the office of Vice-President, Graduate Student Assembly of Virginia Tech.

Currently he is working as a Research Associate on Global Positioning Systems - Cropping Systems Project at Virginia Tech. He is a member of Sigma-Xi, Gamma Sigma Delta, American Society of Agronomy, Soil Science Society of America, Soil and Water Conservation Society, and Association of International Agriculture and Rural Development.