This paper was prepared as a Master's Thesis. I would like to express gratitude to Dr. E. Scott Geller for mentoring me through the process of designing, implementing, and evaluating this study. Sage guidance from Dr. Richard Winett and Dr. Russell Jones is also much appreciated. Furthermore, I would like to thank Dr. Geller and Scott Krueger (Ashley's father) for their financial assistance and belief in the value of this project. I would also like to thank Elise Drake and Matthew Cox for their instrumental help in coordinating The A.R.K. Project, Steve Clarke for his role in the statistical analysis of the study, and Doug Wiegand for his conceptual input during the formation of the project. Finally, thank you to all of the research assistants and community leaders whose hard work and dedication made this project happen!
