Andrew Phillip DeGuilio was born in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania on November 18, 1975. He grew up in Pittsburgh where he attended St. Edmunds Academy and Central Catholic High School. While at Central Catholic he was involved in many student organizations and played soccer, lacrosse, cross-country, and track. His favorite pastime while growing up in western Pennsylvania was fly-fishing on the local rivers and streams. After high school, he went on to Villanova University where he received a Bachelors of Mechanical Engineering in 1998. While at Villanova University, he decided to continue his education in graduate school at Virginia Tech. His future plans are uncertain, but he hopes to find employment somewhere near his family.
