

Images:

(left) Photo, by author, of brick ventilation openings at the gable face of roof, Jailers house, Edenton, NC.

(right) Drawing of new mechanical system wall opening, elevation and section, typical of all buildings.

Vitae: Jack Leroy Scott

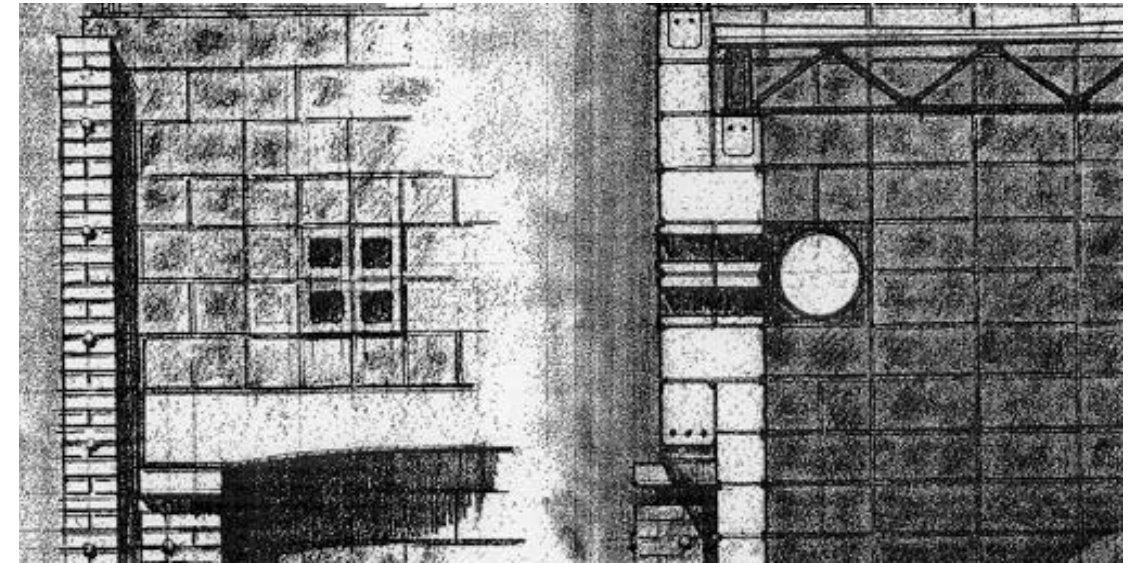

Education

Bachelors of Environmental Design in Architecture from North Carolina State University - School of Design 1985.

Completing degree requirements for a Master of Architecture at Virginia Tech's Washington / Alexandria Center for Architecture. Winner of interschool fall semester design competition.

Philosophy

Architecture is the process of using the built environment to express universal and cultural ideas.

Images:

(left) Photo, by author, of two-story front porch, typical of several houses, Edenton, NC.

(right) Sketch of the new county complex public porch.

Bibliography:

Architectural Review magazine, May, 1983, p.15.

Bishir, Catherine W.; Brown, Charlotte V.; Lounsbury, Carl R. and Wood III, Ernst H.; Architects and Builders in North Carolina / A History of Practice of Building; The University of North Carolina Press; 1990.

Brodsky, Marc D., The Courthouse at Edenton, Published by Chowan County, Edenton, NC, 1989.

Progressive Architecture magazine, August 1981, p.76.

