

The image features several architectural section drawings of a large, multi-story building, likely a sports center. The drawings are arranged in a roughly rectangular frame around the central text. The top drawing shows a long, horizontal section with multiple levels and a central corridor. The middle-left drawing shows a section with a curved, tiered structure, possibly a seating area or a curved facade. The middle-right drawing shows a vertical section of a tower-like structure with multiple floors and a central shaft. The bottom drawing shows another long, horizontal section, similar to the top one but with different internal details. The drawings are detailed, showing structural elements like beams, columns, and stairs.
