

Spatial behavior during noon hours

Figure 65

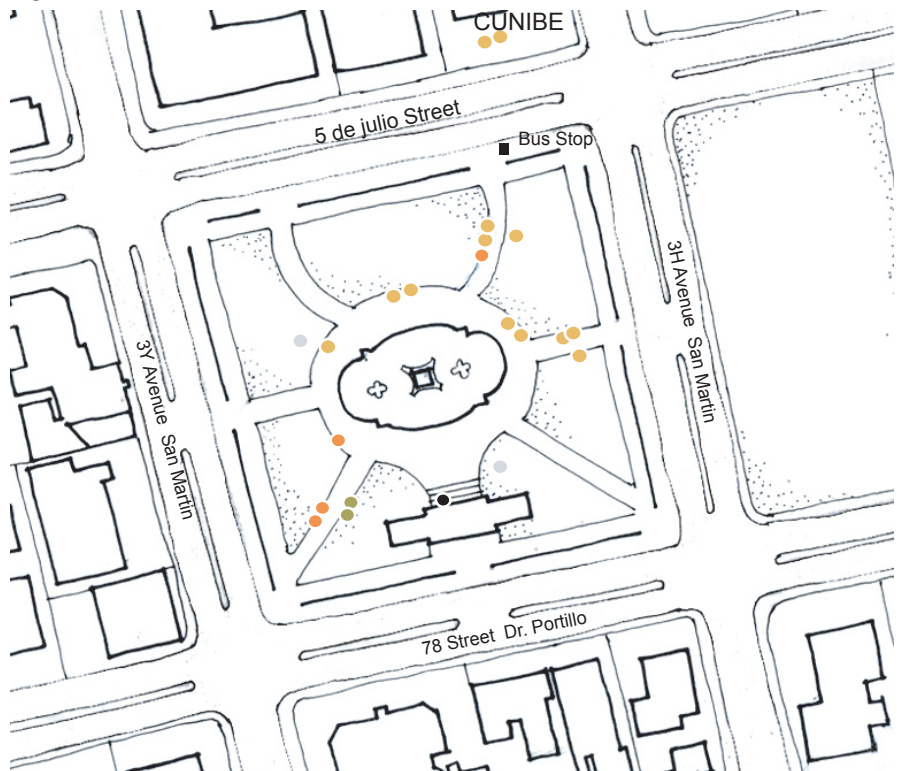

At noon hours few people are seen in the plaza passing through it, but no permanent activity at this hour ever took place. The solar incidence at this hour is intense and most trees are not mature enough to provide efficient shade to people. Plaza de la Madre is practically empty at this hour.

At noon, most people are seen in the plaza under a tree. Most are young people from CUNIBE and clerks and other individuals waiting for establishments to reopen after noon break. Activities at this time are mostly passive, people are seen reading or interacting with others.
