

2 Static Cell

The static cell allows absorption measurements to be calibrated with mixtures of known concentrations. Concentrations are measured via partial pressures. The windows are slanted 10 degrees to reduce reflections feeding back to the detector. Sapphire windows provide a wide range of transmissible wavelengths.

