

VITA

(February, 1997)

The author, Andrew C. Johnson, was born in Fort Washington, Maryland, on January 21, 1972. He received a Bachelor of Science degree in Civil Engineering from Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University in May 1995. His undergraduate education was conducted in the Department of Civil Engineering with concentration in structures. Upon receiving his undergraduate degree, the author pursued a graduate education in the same department, with emphasis in the area of timber structures. Prior to, and during his undergraduate study, the author was employed as an Engineering Technician with Schnabel Engineering Associates, Bethesda, MD, from May to December 1992 and the Summers of 1993 and 1994. While a graduate student, he became a member of Chi Epsilon Honor Society, Golden Key Honor Society, Student Publication Photo Staff, and took part in Virginia Tech Steel Bridge Design Team which won the second place in Carolina Competition. Upon the successful completion of his graduate degree, the author will seek an entry level position in a timber engineering related company.