The Experiences and Perceptions of Five
Elementary School Counselors:
Providing Family Counseling
to
Families of Children with Learning Disabilities

Laura A. Granato

Dissertation submitted to the Faculty of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University in partial fulfillment of requirements for the degree of

Doctor of Philosophy in Counselor Education

Libby R. Hoffman, Ed. D., Chair
Richard S. Paritzky, Ph.D.
Karen H. Rosen, Ed.D.
Dorothy J. Blum, Ed.D.
Gabriella Belli, Ph.D.

March 31, 1999
Blacksburg, Virginia

Key Words: Family Counseling, School Counseling, Children with Learning Disabilities
Copyright 1999, Laura A. Granato
The Experiences and Perceptions of Five Elementary School Counselors: Providing Family Counseling to Families of Children with Learning Disabilities

Laura A. Granato

(ABSTRACT)

Family systems counseling is a powerful and beneficial counseling technique that has been effective in treating families of children with learning disabilities. Family counseling has been effective in many settings, but has not been explored as a school counselor intervention. This research is a qualitative study exploring school counselors’ experiences and perceptions while providing family counseling to families of children with learning disabilities. This counseling included a minimum of eight counseling sessions per family.

The results of this study indicate that school counselors must begin to incorporate family counseling into their regular school counseling programs in order to most effectively help children. If family counseling becomes a standard practice for school counselors, counselor education programs will need to incorporate family counseling courses into their school counseling program curricula. School counselors may also obtain family counseling training through workshops, consultation and clinical supervision.

Findings from this study suggest that school systems may need to implement the following changes: 1) provide flexibility in scheduling that allows counselors to meet with families during evenings, Saturdays, and summer months, 2) arrange for accessibility of counselors to families requesting family services, 3) provide availability of counselors as 12-month employees in order to maintain a consistent family counseling program, 4) reduce the counselor-to-pupil ratio by hiring more school counselors, 5) redefine the counselor’s role and job description to include providing more counseling services, specifically family counseling, 6) increase opportunities for training and clinical supervision in family counseling, 7) provide appropriate facilities for family counseling in the schools and 8) provide training of family systems for school administrators and personnel.

The results of this study show that counselors may need to engage in public relations activities so that children and families may be better informed of the variety of counseling services available, including family counseling. Since school counselors spend much of their time working with children with learning disabilities and family counseling is necessary to bring about lasting changes in children and families, school counselors must work with family systems. The results of this study indicate that family counseling needs to be incorporated in school counseling programs.
DEDICATION

“There is a song that needs to be sung in our culture, a song of the rhythms of relationships, a song of people enriching and expanding each other . . . the melodies of mutual accommodation and support that cement human interaction . . . Parent and child define each other in millions of small acts that fit together with the precision of a chemical reaction . . . It is the silent song of life.”

Salvadore Minuchin, 1984

This dissertation is dedicated to the silent song of life.
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

A thank you is extended to the school counselors who participated in this study. A thank you is also extended to the students, families and school faculty who contributed to this research.

Many people have provided guidance and emotional support as I pursued my graduate education. I would like to express my appreciation to my doctoral committee; Dr. Libby Hoffman, Dr. Richard Paritzky, Dr. Dorothy Blum, Dr. Karen Rosen and Dr. Gabriella Belli, for their valuable insights and encouragement.

My family, mother and father deserve acknowledgement for their words of encouragement as I pursued this goal. A special thank you for the support of my friends, especially Dr. Martha Ozer and David Schwade, for cheering me through the final stages of the dissertation process.

A thank you to Dr. Dorothy Blum for planting the seed which allowed me to pursue my doctoral endeavors and a thank you to Dr. Rich Paritzky for watering the seed.

I would like to express my sincere appreciation and gratitude to my mentor Dr. Libby Hoffman for her assistance and guidance in helping me to develop and complete this study. Her wisdom and enthusiasm have been a great inspiration for me in pursuing my goals of becoming a counselor educator.
TABLE OF CONTENTS

ABSTRACT

DEDICATION .................................................................................................................................. iii

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT .............................................................................................................. iv

LIST OF TABLES ............................................................................................................................. vii

LIST OF FIGURES ............................................................................................................................... ix

CHAPTER 1 - INTRODUCTION ........................................................................................................... 1

- Introduction ..................................................................................................................................... 1
- Background of the Problem .............................................................................................................. 3
- Statement of the Problem ................................................................................................................ 6
- Purpose of the Study ........................................................................................................................ 7
- Theoretical Basis ............................................................................................................................. 7
- Research Questions .......................................................................................................................... 8
- Need for the Study .......................................................................................................................... 8
- Significance of the Study ................................................................................................................ 9
- Definitions ...................................................................................................................................... 9

CHAPTER 2 - LITERATURE REVIEW .................................................................................................. 12

- Family Counseling in the Schools ............................................................................................... 12
- Family Systems Theory ................................................................................................................. 18
- Family Counseling ....................................................................................................................... 22
- Structural Family Counseling .................................................................................................... 23
- Play Techniques in Family Counseling ....................................................................................... 33
- Learning Disabilities ..................................................................................................................... 36
- Family System of a Child with Learning Disabilities .................................................................... 41
- Using Systems Theory with Families of Children with Learning Disabilities ............................ 50
- Summary ..................................................................................................................................... 54

CHAPTER 3 - METHOD ...................................................................................................................... 56

- Design .......................................................................................................................................... 56
- Research Questions ...................................................................................................................... 57
- Selection of Counselor Participants ............................................................................................. 58
- Procedure for Data Collection ..................................................................................................... 59
- Procedure for Counseling Process ............................................................................................... 61
- Research Instruments for Counselor Experiences and Perceptions ........................................... 62
- Research Instruments for Descriptive Data of Counselors ...................................................... 63
Instruments for Description of Families and as Part of the Counseling Process...... 63
Data Collection........................................................................................................... 67
Data Analysis .............................................................................................................. 71
Summary....................................................................................................................... 74

CHAPTER 4 - RESULTS OF THE STUDY ................................................................. 75
Description of the Counselors ................................................................................... 75
Overview of the Families ........................................................................................... 77
Results......................................................................................................................... 79
Summary....................................................................................................................... 102

CHAPTER 5 - FINDINGS AND DISCUSSION ....................................................... 103
Discussion of Results and Findings.......................................................................... 103
Recommendations for Further Study........................................................................ 115
Future Implications of the Study .............................................................................. 115
Summary....................................................................................................................... 116

REFERENCES............................................................................................................. 119
APPENDICES............................................................................................................... 134

A. Family Counseling Survey for School Counselors ........................................... 135
B. Counselor Invitation .............................................................................................. 136
C. Counselor Screening Form .................................................................................... 137
D. Principal Consent Form ........................................................................................ 140
E. Family Informed Consent Form.......................................................................... 141
   Counselor Informed Consent Form..................................................................... 143
F. Intake Report ......................................................................................................... 144
G. Counseling Progress Notes.................................................................................. 149
H. Counseling Process Notes.................................................................................... 151
I. Family Counseling Evaluation Form ................................................................... 152
J. Early-in-Process Counselor Questionnaire ......................................................... 154
   Post-Counseling Counselor Questionnaire ......................................................... 155
K. Counselor Protocol ............................................................................................... 157
L. Presentation for Counselors ................................................................................ 181
M. Case Descriptions ............................................................................................... 198
N. Permission to use the Structural Family Interaction Questionnaire................. 217

PROFESSIONAL VITAE ......................................................................................... 218
LIST OF TABLES

Table 3-1  Research Questions Matched with Data Collection Sources ..................................... 65
Table 4-1  Number of Counseling Sessions Rescheduled ................................................................. 85
LIST OF FIGURES

Figure 4-1  Family Counseling Sessions Attended by Family Members ......................... 84

Figure 4-2  Perceptions of Elementary School Counselors with Regard to the Ratings of Goals Completed by the Family ................................................... 88

Figure 4-3  Education, Training and Work Experience Elementary School Counselors Need to Continue Providing Family Counseling........................... 96

Figure 4-4  Descriptors Used by Elementary School Counselors to Indicate Their Experiences and Perceptions While Providing Family Counseling to Families of Children with Learning Disabilities............................................... 98