ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The author wishes to dedicate this research endeavor to the memory of his very good friend, Dr. Nevin Frantz, who taught this author the real meaning of tenacity when struggling for something precious. Special thanks is also extended to the memory of Dr. Margret Moore.

The author wants to offer thanks and sincere appreciation to the many individuals who have offered assistance, encouragement, and support throughout this research effort. Special appreciation and thanks is extended to Dr. B. June Schmidt, Committee Chair for her understanding, patience, guidance, and perseverance without which the study would not have reached this point. Gratitude is also extended to Dr. Sidney Crumwell Jr., Dr. Benton Miles, Dr. Samuel Morgan, and Dr. James Hoerner. Their advice and support were invaluable in this effort.

Gratitude and appreciation is also extended to Dr. Peggy Miller, Dr. Teresa Samni, and Dr. Shelia Tucker for their support in this effort. A special thanks to the subjects who permitted the author to interview them and gain an understanding of their educational needs and concerns as professors.
