Wendy Annette Stallard

I was born in Bluefield, West Virginia, the daughter of Howard and Patricia Stallard. I attended Bluefield High School where I was in the National Honor Society and the Art Club. I attended Bluefield College in Bluefield, Virginia where I majored in History and Mathematics and minored in Religion. I was president of Alpha Phi Sigma, the honor fraternity at Bluefield College. I received the Mathematics Award and the Mary Mildred Sullivan Award my senior year. While at Bluefield College, I developed a great love for history. Upon graduation I decided to attend Virginia Tech in pursuit of my Master's degree in History in order to fulfill my dream of teaching at the college level. I am married to Bryan Beavers, whom I met while attending Bluefield College. I reside in Bluefield, Virginia. Currently, I am employed by Bluefield College as interim director of the Bluefield College Learning Center, assistant director of the Bluefield College Writing Center, and technical support person for Bluefield College's online Writing Center.
