State Agencies Regulating Seafood Processing and Marketing

Foreword

This project was supported by funds from the Sea Grant Program of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, U.S. Department of Commerce. This Directory of Seafood Processors lists for the first time, the seafood processors in Virginia, the products they sell, and their location in the state. The Directory will serve to identify a source of product supply for brokers, distributors, wholesalers, and retailers of seafood and seafood products, in addition to identifying and quantifying an industry in one of the nation's largest seafood-producing states. The publication should also be useful to many Federal and state agencies.

The editors gratefully acknowledge the assistance of many people in the preparation of this Directory. Special thanks are extended to Jack Wright and Joan Youngblood of the Virginia Seafood Council for their cooperation and support in making this publication possible.

Regards are also expressed to Robert H. Holland for his help in preparing the computer programs necessary to publish the Directory and Jewel Chase and the consulting staff of the University's Computer Center for their constant help. Finally, our sincere appreciation to our technician, Bonnie Smith, and to our secretaries, Janis Vick and Bridget Findley who worked to assemble the data in the present form.

Introduction

The purpose of this Directory is to provide a list of Virginia seafood processors, the products they market, and their location in the state. The Directory was compiled from questionnaires distributed to the seafood processors and Extension personnel.

The Directory is divided into six sections to provide maximum information concerning the seafood industry. Section II gives seafood products and lists the names of the companies or individuals who market the product. A complete description of the company can be found in Section I.

Every effort has been made to prepare a errorless Directory. However, if any errors or omissions are found, please notify the editors.

SECTION VI

State Agencies Regulating Seafood Processing and Marketing

Virginia Department of Health

The Virginia State Department of Health's Bureau of Shellfish Sanitation is responsible for the sanitary supervision of the operation of crabmeat-picking plants, oyster-shucking plants, clam-shucking plants, and shellstock only dealers, as well as repackers of these shellfish. In addition, the Bureau maintains a sanitary shoreline survey and bacteriological survey of the growing areas from which these shellfish are taken.

For administrative purposes, Tidewater Virginia is divided into three major areas: Eastern Shore, Norfolk, and Northern Neck-Middle Peninsula. In each of these respective areas, there is an office which conducts the above-mentioned surveillance and sampling programs of the growing areas and the packed product.

Inquiries concerning the program, shellfish, or shellfish-growing waters should be directed to:

Mr. Cloyde W. Wiley, Director
Bureau of Shellfish Sanitation
Virginia Health Department
109 Governor Street
Richmond, Virginia 23219

Telephone No. 804-770-7937

OR

Mr. John A. Hope, Assistant Director

Virginia Department of Agriculture and Commerce

The Virginia Department of Agriculture and Commerce's Food Inspection Section is responsible for enforcing the Virginia Food Laws throughout a large portion of the food industry in Virginia. The purpose of the Virginia Food Laws is to assure the consuming public that the food supply is wholesome, free of microbiological and chemical contaminants, and properly labeled. A major part of the Food Section's program consists of conducting sanitary inspections and collecting samples of raw ingredients and finished products.

In the shellfish industry, the Food Section's jurisdiction begins when oysters or other similar products undergo further processing as in the manufacture of breaded oysters or the preparation of deviled crabs. Any firm which processes shellfish is subject to routine inspections by Virginia state food inspectors. In addition, any firm which warehouses or sells shellfish, either raw or processed, is subject to inspection. Due to the highly perishable nature of shellfish, samples are often collected for bacteriological examination. Samples are also collected to check for residues of pesticides and heavy metals. Through this program of inspections and sample collection, the Food Section strives to carry out its responsibilities to assure the safety of the Commonwealth's food supply.

Inquiries concerning the program or seafood products should be directed to:

Mr. Ray E. Vanhuss, Jr.
Food Inspection Supervisor
Virginia Department of Agriculture and Commerce
203 N. Governor Street
Room 410
Richmond, Virginia 23219

Telephone No. 804-770-3520

Virginia Marine Resources Commission

The Marine Resources Commission is charged with the duty of making, enforcing, and administering regulations to promote the welfare of the seafood industry and to conserve and promote the seafood and marine resources of Virginia. The agency is involved in leasing and controlling public shellfish beds and in conserving and replenishing fishery resources.

Inquiries concerning the program should be directed to:

Mr. James E. Douglas, Jr., Commissioner
Virginia Marine Resources Commission
P. O. Box 756
Newport News, Virginia 23607

Telephone No. 804-244-3572
