Communicating Research to the Public through ETDs

April 25, 2016

VT is a public land-grant university serving the Commonwealth of Virginia, the nation, and the world community. The discovery and dissemination of new knowledge are central to its mission. Through its focus on teaching and learning, research and discovery, and outreach and engagement, the university creates, conveys, and applies knowledge to expand personal growth and opportunity, advance social and community development, foster economic competitiveness, and improve the quality of life.

Intellectual Property

Copyright Law: U.S. Code, Title 17, Sect. 102
"original works of authorship fixed in any tangible medium of expression"
• Copyright is automatic (© not required)
• Registration is not required
• Payment is not required
VT Policy 13000: Intellectual Property
• "Traditional results of academic scholarship" … "the presumption of ownership is to the author(s)"
• "University rights are limited to free (no cost) use in teaching, research, extension, etc. in perpetuity"

Access to your VT ETD

• Worldwide
• Available to the public immediately through VTechWorks
• University-only
• Available only to current VT community for 1 year
• Secured (withheld, embargoed)
• Held in a dark (i.e., inaccessible) archive for 1 year

Publicly accessible ETDs are NOT a red flag for publishers.

Comments: Science Editors’ Surveys

“Our journal has essentially ignored any potential conflict arising from publication of ETDs, because the situation is really not different from the days of hard copy thesis holdings by University libraries. They ... are simply more easily available now...”

“While we recognise these as legitimate and citable publications, they are considered grey literature because they do not go through blind external peer review and are not published in a recognised peer reviewed outlet. They are not considered prepublication...”

Comments: Social Sciences/Humanities Survey

“All essays go through extensive review and revision process, so even if the starting point is out there, the final product is not.”

“The editorial review and publication process entails substantial refinement and revision of works that originate as part of doctoral work and thus we do not consider raw dissertations as competing with the works eventually published under our imprint.”

“Prior availability through an IR is not usually the deciding factor. We are more interested in the quality of the work, how well it fits with our list, and whether it deserves wider dissemination and promotion.”
