Dear Dr. Trahan,

Theses and dissertations are exempt from our journal copyright and prior publication policies, so as far as the AVMA journals are concerned, there is nothing you need to do in order to include this article in your thesis. Your university will dictate the format of the thesis, but (if allowed) it would be a good idea to include a note somewhere in your thesis that this particular article (chapter) has been published in AJVR (or probably will be by the time your thesis is finalized). Also, your graduate committee may recommend changes to the manuscript, so what appears in your thesis may not be identical to what appears in AJVR.

If you have any further questions or concerns, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,

Subject: Rights to publish article within Masters Thesis

Good Evening Dr. Pillars,

I am unsure whom to address this email but I imagine you may help direct this to the appropriate authorities for assistance. I have had a manuscript accepted for publication and would like to include this article within my graduate thesis. My concern is what would be required to ensure I have permission to do so.

The manuscript is entitled "Effects of Three Corticosteroids on Equine Articular Cocultures In Vitro" and I think the last revision number I have is AJVR-17-11-0264. Please let me know whom I may address or what steps I can do to expedite the process.

Sincerely,
Ricky Trahan
