Authors' rights

As of 2009, copyright of all articles in NRC Research Press journals remains with the authors. Copyright of all articles published prior to 2009 is held by Canadian Science Publishing (operating as NRC Research Press) and its licensors (also see our Copyright and Reuse of Content information).

Under the terms of the license to publish granted to NRC Research Press, authors retain the following rights:

1. To post a copy of their submitted manuscript (pre-print) on their own website, an institutional repository, a preprint server, or their funding body's designated archive (no embargo period). Publication on a preprint server prior to submitting to an NRC Research Press journal does not constitute "prior publication".

2. To post a copy of their accepted manuscript (post-print) on their own website, an institutional repository, a preprint server, or their funding body's designated archive (no embargo period). Authors who archive or self-archive accepted articles are asked to provide a hyperlink from the manuscript to the Journal's website.

3. Authors, and any academic institution where they work at the time, may reproduce their manuscript for the purpose of course teaching.

4. Authors may reuse all or part of their manuscript in other works created by them for non-commercial purposes, provided the original publication in an NRC Research Press journal is acknowledged through a note or citation.

These authors' rights ensure that NRC Research Press journals are compliant with open access policies of research funding agencies, including the Canadian Institutes of Health Research, the Natural Sciences and Engineering Research Council of Canada, the US National Institutes of Health, the Wellcome Trust, the UK Medical Research Council, l'Institut national de la santé et de la recherche médicale in France, and others.

In support of authors who wish or need to sponsor open access to their published research articles, NRC Research Press also offers a Gold Open Access (OpenArticle) option.

The above rights do not extend to copying or reproduction of the full article for commercial purposes. Authorization to do so may be obtained by clicking on the "Reprints & Permissions" link in the Article Tools menu of the article in question or under license by Access Copyright. The Article Tools menu is accessible through the full-text article or abstract page.
