Elevation/Section Study Process:

Based on the Scene Container idea, the section was first studied by introducing layered spaces of differing enclosure degrees for bringing outside scenes into the building and for arranging different rooms with varied demands of openness and enclosure.

With this sectional concept the elevation was developed in the corresponding structural system and architectural style.