

The NIMBY Syndrome and Low-Cost Manufactured Housing Developments: Can Landscape Architecture Help Overcome Community Opposition?

Janet L. Bean

Thesis submitted to the Faculty of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the degree of

Master of Landscape Architecture

Wendy R. Jacobson, Chair
Brian F. Katen
Rosemary C. Goss

February 2004
Blacksburg, Virginia

Keywords: Low-income Housing, Manufactured Housing, Neighborhood Design, Housing Satisfaction, NIMBY