Farm Organizations

Distinctive Features.

Organizations
County Advisory Board.

The County Advisory Board is composed of chairmen of the community clubs. It holds an annual meeting on the 4th Monday in April of each year and other times at the call of the Local Agent. At the Annual Meeting it passes on the Plan of Work and any other phase of the work it deems necessary.. It cooperates with the Local Agent in carrying out the Program of Work and any others relative to farm interests.

2. Function of local people, committees or project leaders in developing the program of work.

The communities through their club leaders have definite plans of keeping before the people the importance of improving their soils, homes, the erection of more and better schools and churches, the procuring of higher grade stock.

Community Clubs.

These clubs are organized by the several communities and cooperate with and assist in all local endeavors and general county work. They study local farm problems and render valuable aid to the Agent in his work. Two clubs sent delegates to the Farmers State Conference, Hampton Institute. They also assist in school and church activities. Three new Rosenwald schools were erected this year with their cooperation with the school boards, and nearly all the schools extended their terms one to two months.

Farmers County Conference.

The Conference this year was well attended and inspiring Reports from the several clubs showed that our farmers were alive to extension work through which they were solving their problems. District Agent T. B. Patterson made a most timely and instructive address on Soil Improvement.

County Fair.

OUR exhibits this year were not up to the usual standard though creditable. Fine specimens of corn, tobacco and potatoes were on hand and a nice assortment of industrial work by the schools.

State Conference, Hampton Institute.

The Conference this summer was one of the best in its history, Four delegates from this County attended, well pleased with what they saw and heard. This Conference considered some of the most difficult problems of farm life and pointed out the way for better rural conditions. Speakers from Washington, New York, The Extension Service, Blacksburg and Hampton Institute gave freely of their time to make it a real success.

General Statistics, including statistics on the various organizations

Program of Work, soils established, methods employed and results.

This (Brunswick) county is about midway between the seacoast and the mountains and has a soil that is adapted to a greater variety of crops than most counties, hence nearly every kind of crop is grown. Tobacco, cotton, and peanuts are the chief market crops and they bring profitable returns. Corn, wheat, oats, rye and the clovers are food and feed crops. Our farmers through demonstration methods have made bumper yields in all these.

SOILS.

THE importance of improving the soil is kept constantly before our farmers. To accomplish this they are urged to raise and save more manure by means of more bedding for stock and better care of same. SUGGESTIONS RELATIVE TO THE PREPARATION OF THE COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT'S ANNUAL REPORT.

The annual report should be a review, analysis, interpretation, and presentation to the people of the county, the State, and the Nation of the sum total of the extension activities in each county for the year and the results obtained by the county extension agent assisted by the subject-matter specialists. The making of such a report is of great value to the county extension agent and the people of the county in showing the progress made during the year as a basis for future plans. It is of vital concern also to the State and Nation as a measure of rural progress and a basis for intelligent legislation and financial support.

Separate statistical and narrative reports are desired from each county extension agent in charge of a line of work, such as county agent, home demonstration agent, boys' and girls' club agent, and negro agent. Where an assistant agent has been employed a part or all of the year, a report on his or her work should be included with the report of the leader in charge of that line of work. Where an agent in charge of a line of work has quit the service during the year, the information contained in his or her report should be incorporated in the annual report of the agent on duty at the close of the report year, and the latter report so marked. Where two or more extension agents are employed in a county, each in charge of a line of work, care should be exercised to avoid including the same data in the statistical report of more than one agent.

At least four copies of the annual report should be made: One copy for the county officials, one copy for the agent's files, one copy for the State extension office, and one copy for the Extension Service, United States Department of Agriculture. The report to the Washington office should be sent through the State extension office.

NARRATIVE SUMMARY.

The narrative report should be a statement in orderly fashion and arranged under appropriate subheadings, of the work done, methods used, and results obtained under each project, as well as of the general work accomplished. Every statement should be clear-cut, concise, forceful, and, where possible, reinforced with ample data from the statistical summary. In the preparation of the part of the report relative to each project, the results reported in the statistical summary for the project should be analyzed, conclusions drawn, and recommendations made. The report may well be illustrated with photographs, maps, diagrams, blue prints, or copies of charts and other forms used in demonstration work. Full credit should be given to all cooperating agencies. The lines should be single-spaced, with double space between the paragraphs, and reasonably good margins left. The pages should be numbered in consecutive order.

The following outline is suggestive of how the narrative report may be clearly and systematically presented:
