

Copyright Release

09/16/2020

This document has been requested by the Signature Approval System hosted by the Virginia Tech Graduate School (<https://ess.graduateschool.vt.edu/>) and is submitted along with a PDF copy of my dissertation, “Structure-Property-Processing Relationships Between Polymeric Solutions and Additive Manufacturing for Biomedical Applications”, in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in Macromolecular Science and Engineering.

I, Emily M. Wilts, claim copyright protection for my Ph.D. dissertation, “Structure-Property-Processing Relationships Between Polymeric Solutions and Additive Manufacturing for Biomedical Applications” (2020). In accordance with VT Graduate School requirements, I hereby grant to Virginia Tech and its agents the non-exclusive license to archive and make accessible, after 1 year, my thesis or dissertation [in whole or in part in all forms of media], now or hereafter known. I retain all ownership rights to the copyright of the thesis or dissertation. I also retain the right to use in future works (such as articles or books) all or part of this thesis or dissertation.

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Emily Wilts". The signature is written in a cursive style with a large initial "E" and a long, sweeping underline.

Emily M. Wilts

Department of Chemistry, Macromolecules Innovation Institute

Virginia Tech, September 16, 2020