

E. Educational Trips.

No educational trips are planned.

XI. COOPERATIVE PLAN.

Home agents and county agents are working out plans for the organization in February of County Agricultural Extension Board which will unify the county Extension program.

XII. PROBLEMS IN CARRYING OUT THE EXTENSION PROGRAM.

1. Insufficient Office Space.
2. Poorly arranged office space - home agents and county agents offices in separate buildings.
3. Lack of space and equipment for meetings.

The remedy for the above problems will be the building of the proposed County Agricultural Office.

X. PLANS FOR PROFESSIONAL IMPROVEMENT.

A. Organized Study.

1. Agents will attend such schools and short courses as designated.

B. Reading Professional Magazines and Other Publications.

Agents will read a reasonable amount of professional literature to keep abreast of professional trends.

C. Membership in Professional Organizations.

Membership is maintained by agent and assistant agent in State and National Home Demonstration Agents Associations and American Home Economics Association and the Virginia Home Economics Association.

The agent maintains membership in Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs and the Rocky Mount Woman's Club.

The assistant agent is a member of the Roanoke City Home Economics Association and the Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

D. Programs Planned by Other Organizations.

Agents assist with programs planned by the Farm Bureau, State and Local Dairy Associations, commercial organizations and local power supplier.

D. Commercial Interests.

Extreme care is exercised in commercial interests so as not to get involved with advertising or the sponsoring of specific commodities. Due recognition will be given commercial firms for contributions, service and sponsorship.

E. Other Professional Workers.

An attempt is made by agents to keep other professional workers indirectly informed of the Extension programs and policies. Copies of new bulletins are passed along to other professional workers and whenever possible invitations are extended to attend meetings and to assist in extension programs.

IX. PLANS FOR RECORDING PROGRESS AND EVALUATING PROGRAMS.

Agents keep a day by day record of work in diary form. At the end of each month this information is organized and listed on a mimeograph sheet called "Agent's Accomplishment Sheet" to be transferred to the monthly report form. These sheets are filed for reference. This accumulation of records gives an over-all picture of accomplishments for the year.

Home demonstration clubs compile scrapbooks of years work which are judged on a competitive basis as a part of the Achievement Day activities. An evaluation of 4-H work is made when project records are completed in November.

organizations, the home demonstration clubs make their fair share of cash contributions. Whenever possible, agents and club members lend assistance to the program.

8. Roanoke Chamber of Commerce.

Community Improvement Club program, sponsored by the Roanoke Chamber of Commerce, has been a great improvement to the Extension program. Agents have worked closely with this sponsoring organization.

VIII. DEVELOPING GOOD PUBLIC RELATIONS.

A. Co-Workers.

Professional ethics encourages each member of an organization to assume responsibility for duties incurred in carrying out the planned program. Extension programs are joint programs, therefore, are worked out jointly by county and home agents. The home agents put forth special effort to see that planned programs are successfully carried out.

B. General Public.

Demands on agents by the general public are usually met with a helpful attitude. Agents show interest in public affairs and work with civic groups on special programs.

C. Elected Representatives.

It is the intention of the agents to understand public policies, but to remain neutral as far as party organizations are concerned.

2. Newspapers.

The Extension program depends a great deal on local newspapers for publicity and feature stories.

3. Radio and Television Stations.

Agents use radio and television stations for educational programs. The television stations located in Roanoke are convenient and cooperative by allowing time for demonstrations and announcements. Agents use the local radio station and the Roanoke radio stations for programs.

4. Appalachian Power Company.

Agents cooperate with the home service representatives and the home economists on programs pertaining to electricity. Home Economists give foods demonstrations and demonstrations using electrical equipment in the home.

5. Public Health.

The agents cooperate with the Public Health Department on health programs and drives.

6. Welfare Department.

Agents cooperate with officers of the Welfare Department where assistance to indigent families and general welfare programs.

7. Speech and Hearing Clinic.

Since the Speech and Hearing Clinic is sponsored by civic leaders conduct 4-H Club meetings and programs monthly during the school term.

Project leaders will be trained for the Home Grounds Beautification project in September. These leaders will assist club members with project work and the completion of records.

Clothing leaders, both adult and junior, will be trained in early summer on the use of sewing machines and simple sewing. These leaders will conduct club meetings in clothing projects.

Agents work closely with the administrative officers of the public schools and with teachers since 4-H Club meetings are held in schools where school property is used regularly. Other types of meetings are held in schools. In May, the Franklin County High School building will be used to entertain the District IV Federation meeting.

A. Over-all Program Leaders		To organize
(Organization leaders for county Extension Service Board)

5. Camps.

At least thirty-five to forty 4-H Club members will be permitted to go to Camp Holiday Lake for one week to attend district 4-H Club camp.

One girl and one boy will be allowed to attend the State Conservation Camp at 4-H Camp Farrar, Virginia.

Senior club members will have an opportunity to attend the senior camp at Camp Farrar the last of July.

6. Achievement Day.

An Achievement Day program is held in recognition to club members for their outstanding achievements. Displays of work well done is open for other club members and leaders to observe. Medals and state awards won for outstanding club work are distributed at this time. The program has been previously planned by members and leaders at the Council meeting. This is the highlight of the 4-H Club program for the year.

D. Young Men and Young Women's Work.

This group is inactive at the present time since the majority of the membership are college students. Therefore, the meetings are held in the summer while the students are at home, and are in the nature of an educational program with recreational activities. Picnics are also popular with this group.

3. Contests.

County demonstration contests will be held in March to eliminate members and select winners to compete in the district contests. Any member capable of winning the district contest will compete in state contests during the State Short Course.

One girl will be selected to represent the county at the Electric Congress in Richmond in August.

Clubs will compete in the W.S.L.S. Contest. Awards in this contest are based on the achievements of the entire club. W.S.L.S. gives three cash awards in the county with an opportunity for the winning club to compete in the area contest.

Prior to April 1st, senior club members with outstanding records compile the records and enter them in state competition for awards offered in the various projects.

4. Short Course.

At the State Short Course in June held at VPI, some of our senior club members will be permitted to attend. The members from the county will depend upon the number of district and state winners and upon the allotted quota per county.

assistance during club meetings and home visits. Projects listed by girls include: Bread making, Housekeeping, Meal Preparation, Outdoor Meals, Food Preservation, Clothing, Units I, II, III, Your Furnishings, Laundry, Room Improvement, Health and Garden.

The members of the garden project participate in the Sears contest. Therefore, it is necessary that the agents make two or more visits to each project. The agents also assist the horticultural specialists with judging these projects. These members also participate in the canning contest by entering at least five pint jars of food in the county contest with six exhibits being sent to the district contest.

C. 4-H Activities.

1. National 4-H Club Week.

The opportunity comes at this time to publicize 4-H activities and achievements through radio and television programs, news articles and displays. Talented club members often participate in a county-wide talent show.

2. Rural Life Sunday.

On 4-H Club Sunday, many clubs will be recognized in their own local churches. Some clubs will participate in the Sunday Church Service. A Vesper Service will be held in a Rocky Mount Park for all club members and guests, with local ministers and club members taking part.

3. "Safety Hazards and Improvements."
4. "Spring Clean-Up."
5. "Planning and Planting Home Grounds."
6. "Lawn Mower Safety and Operation."
7. "Mulching Trees, Shrubs and Flowers."

Objectives:

1. To teach safety rules and regulations.
2. To make a safe Christmas for everyone.
3. To make 4-H'ers Safety conscious.
4. To improve home grounds.
5. To improve outward appearance of home.
6. To teach proper use of lawn mower.
7. To teach the importance of mulching.
8. To receive training in demonstrations.

Procedure:

The planned demonstrations will be given by agents, leaders and highway patrolmen at club meetings. Pamphlets and leaflets of material will be used for study.

In addition to the county-wide projects, girls are permitted to take individual homemaking projects. Materials and manuals are furnished the girls and they work individually on these projects as home projects under the direction of their mother or with the assistance of leaders. Agents also give some

6. Project Planning Committee.

This committee is composed of active 4-H Club members and leaders. The 1959 program of work was set up by this group assisted by the agents. This committee made plans for the county-wide projects and made recommendations for certain things to be written into the program.

7. Others.

County 4-H Leaders Organization. Adult leaders assist the agents in conducting 4-H Club meetings in schools. Junior leaders help with project work and with camp and county-wide meetings. The leaders organization will be represented at the State Leaders meeting. A meeting of the leaders will be held in connection with the spring 4-H Council meeting.

B. 4-H Project Work.

For the year, the project planning committee chose for the county-wide program Safety and Home Grounds Beautification. The plan of work for the year lists demonstrations are:

the fall meeting is for officer training and planning of the Achievement Day Program. The spring meeting is the business meeting for planning club activities such as National 4-H Club Week, National 4-H Sunday, 4-H Talent Program, and 4-H Club camp. The Council helps also with setting up the county-wide program and the planning of the 4-H Yearbooks.

4. All Stars.

Work is being done to organize an All Star Chapter within the county. At the present, All Star members assist with 4-H Club work throughout the county by serving as leaders and assisting younger club members. Recommendations are made by All Stars for senior club members to be taken into the Virginia All Star Chapter at their annual meeting.

5. Honor Club.

Three years of successful club work is required to become a member of the Honor Club, and the boy or girl must be at least 14 years of age. A county-wide meeting of the Honor Club is held annually. This year a luncheon meeting will be held at Hotel Rocky Mount.

and Home Development Program. Recently, the list has been increased to eight families who are now being assisted by the agents in carrying on home improvements and good farming and home management practices. The agent expects to assist these families with home management and whatever problems or situations on which they need assistance.

IV. COUNTY EXTENSION PROGRAM - YOUTH.

A. Organization.

1. County Youth Council.

At the recent sub-district agent training meeting on 4-H Club work held in Halifax, the County Youth Council and its potentials were discussed. It is evident that Franklin County needs such a Council and we plan during 1959 to do much work to make such a council possible. However, since the County Agricultural Extension Board is not fully organized, this is going to be most difficult.

2. County Youth Committees.

The youth program within this county is carried on through organizations such as the 4-H Club Council, All Stars, Honor Club, and 4-H Leaders, both adult and junior.

3. County 4-H Council.

This Council is composed of Executive Officers of all 4-H Clubs within the county, and the advisors or leaders of these clubs. The Council holds two meetings each year;

7. Community Improvement Clubs.

The agents will work with organized groups in communities carrying on community programs by helping with organization and responding to calls for special assistance on programs.

8. Unorganized Communities.

Work organized in communities still does not enable the agents to reach all sections. There are large numbers of people who do not participate in clubs. The agents answer requests from these families in as many ways as possible. Home visits will be made, pamphlets sent on request, and information given through news articles, radio and television programs.

9. Christmas Show.

The clubs will prepare in November to hold a Christmas Show early in December as a fund raising activity. Each club will be asked to furnish and set up an exhibit. A small charge will be collected from all who view the exhibits. Proceeds will be used to defray expenses of leaders meetings.

III. FARM AND HOME DEVELOPMENT.

Franklin County is not a Pilot County, but the Extension organization is deep rooted in the county and families naturally expect assistance from extension agents in farm and home practices. The past year, only five families were listed as having carried the Farm

Other areas of work which will require time and effort of agents are kitchen planning and arrangement, assisting with furniture arrangement, color schemes and selection of house furnishings, particularly rugs and draperies, house plans, and home grounds beautification which includes care and pruning of shrubs. A special interest meeting scheduled in February is expected to eliminate some of the individual assistance given on landscaping.

C. Federation Program of Work.

Citizenship was chosen as the program of work. The county citizenship chairman and the agents will work out a detailed plan for study of the following topics outlined by the Planning Committee, then a meeting will be held for program of work chairman representing the clubs.

Objectives:

1. Encourage women to become qualified voters.
2. Priviledge and responsibilities of citizenship.
3. Children's responsibilities in the home.
4. Encourage participation in community affairs.
5. Civil defense training.
6. Teen-age recreation.

for this meeting. Lunch will be served in the high school cafeteria and the auditorium will be used as the meeting place. The agents and the county committee chairman will work with the district agent on the program.

4. Tours.

A tour of homes and gardens during National Garden Week is being planned by the County H. D. Committee.

5. Tea for High School Juniors.

In an attempt to interest 4-H Club members and others in advanced study of home economics fields, the H. D. Clubs will sponsor a tea for high school juniors in April and invite a local home economist to talk to the group on careers in home economics.

6. Achievement Program.

As a climax of the total year's work, an Achievement program will be held. Detailed plans for this meeting will be worked out at the business meeting of the home demonstration committee. Besides having an outstanding speaker for the Achievement Program, Reading Certificates will be awarded and emblem pins will be distributed to members worthy of receiving them providing they have not received one in the past. An award is being offered to the club having compiled the best record for the year's work.

D. Other Activities.

Many other activities will be employed in the carrying out of the program.

1. Club Goals.

The seven goals listed below were chosen by the planning committee. The choice of these goals was intended to insure active participation by more people toward a better way of life.

1. Practice parliamentary procedure.
2. Attend county Achievement Day program.
3. Attend at least one of the special interest meetings.
4. Actively support the 4-H Clubs in the county.
5. Encourage use of Bookmobile to develop appreciation of good books. Issue Reading Certificates to each member who reads five books from the Approved List.
6. Actively support the bloodmobile.
7. Sponsor a tea for high school juniors.

2. National Home Demonstration Week.

The observance of the special week known as National Home Demonstration Week is an occasion for club members to publicize home demonstration club work, increase membership by holding special programs, and special invitations to inactive members to renew interest in the program.

3. District Meeting.

The Franklin County Federation will entertain District IV at the annual meeting on May 5th. Plans are underway demonstrations. Good Grooming and Personal Appearance for September and Selection of Shoes and Care of Feet for October.

The tailoring clinic was requested by the Wirtz Club and will be held in that community. The agent will organize the group and do the instructing. The beginners sewing clinic will be conducted likewise except the participants will come from more than one club.

4. House Furnishings.

Extensive study in house furnishings in recent years influenced the planning committee to forego demonstrations in this field for other subject matter areas. The one demonstration scheduled "Flower Arrangement" received a unanimous vote of the committee.

Objectives:

1. To learn varieties of flowers.
2. To learn the art of arranging flowers.
3. To learn suitable containers for arrangements.
4. To learn types of arrangements for special occasions.

Procedure:

Since flower arranging is an art that cannot be learned in a leaders meeting, clubs will invite talented demonstrators to give demonstrations. In some cases, clubs will unite for the demonstration where there is available space.

3. Clothing.

Considering the amount of time allotted to the two above mentioned fields of study, limited clothing program to two monthly demonstrations and two special interest meetings for members particularly interested in tailoring and simple construction of clothing.

Objectives:

1. To learn the importance of good personal appearance.
2. To learn techniques of good grooming.
3. To learn to distinguish difference between good grooming and gaudy appearance.
4. To learn shoe selection.
5. To learn types of shoes made by different manufacturers.
6. To learn effect on feet of wearing the right type of shoes.
7. To learn the importance of caring for feet.
8. To learn how shoes effect health.
9. To learn simple methods of clothing construction.
10. To learn uses of patterns.
11. To learn uses of sewing equipment.
12. To learn tailoring methods.
13. To learn to select materials.
14. To learn garment construction.

Procedure.

The two clothing demonstrations are planned as leader

Living, Wills and Deeds, and Better Understanding of Parent, Teacher, and Child, with a special interest meeting on Time Saving scheduled in March.

Objective:

1. To learn time saving methods of doing daily chores.
2. To learn to become more efficient homemakers.
3. To learn conservation of energy.
4. To learn legalism of wills and deeds.
5. To learn importance of legal documents in regard to ownership of property and real estate.
6. To learn how wills should be written.
7. To become better parents through a better understanding of school administration.
8. To improve parent-teacher relationship.

Procedure:

Home Management Specialist, Miss Helen Alverson, will assist agents in carrying out the home management program. Miss Alverson will train leaders for the demonstration "Short Cuts to Daily Living" and the agents will receive information to do the demonstration on "Wills and Deeds." The agents will also give the February demonstration "Better Understanding of Teacher, Parent, and Child." The special interest meeting on "Time Saving" will be the agents' responsibility.

Procedure:

All food demonstrations are scheduled as leaders demonstrations and the program is set up so leaders will be trained by specialists and agents prior to club meetings. Agents trained the leaders for the demonstrations "Snacks and Beverages" for December and "Casserole and One-dish Meals" for January. Leaders for May demonstration "Salads and Dressings" and for "Meal Planning" the June demonstration, will be trained by Mrs. Mary L. Thompson, Assistant State Food Specialist. Agents will train leaders for "Table Setting" demonstration to be given in November. Materials for leaders meetings will be furnished by the County Committee, and hostesses for club meetings will furnish materials for club demonstrations then serve the food prepared in place of refreshments.

The special interest meetings "Outdoor Cookery" and "Weight Control" will be the responsibility of the agents and will be conducted for the members and any others who are interested in the subjects. These meetings will be advertised well in advance of the scheduled date.

2. Home Management.

The desire of club members for the improvement of living habits induced the planning committee to set aside three programs for home management study: Short Cuts to Daily

The 1959 program was planned in June after the program development chairman had discussed with club members at two regular meetings their needs attempting to learn the chief interests of club members. The program includes work in the following subject matter fields with demonstrations listed in each field of study.

1. Food.

a. Home Furnishings Committee.

This committee is working toward the general improvement of home furnishings with emphasis on draperies and home lighting.

b. Nutrition Committee.

The Nutrition Committee will conduct a weight control program and work toward getting wider use of dairy products into diets.

B. Home Demonstration Club Program.

According to the Constitution of the Franklin County Federation of Home Demonstration Clubs, the County Home Demonstration Club Committee is made up of the Federation officers and a president and a vice president of each club and the home demonstration agents as advisors.

This committee has the responsibility of executive duties of the 19 organized clubs and the planning of the county-wide program. The 1959 committee will hold at least three of adult education programs, and staff members are frequently asked to participate or present programs.

An over-all picture of the organized groups of the county Extension program shows 19 active home demonstrations clubs, 72 4-H Clubs, 5 farm and home development families, 7 Community Improvement Clubs, 1 YMW, 2 home economics committees, county home demonstration club committee and sub-committee, 4-H Club Council and sub-committee, 4-H Honor Club, All Stars and 4-H Leaders Organization. The agent and the assistant agent work jointly on the organized program.

II. COUNTY EXTENSION PROGRAM - ADULT.

A. Over-all Program.

1. County Agricultural Extension Service Board.

Organizations which compose the County Agricultural Extension Service Board are functioning in the county and the complete organization of the board is in progress. The agents are working with the county agents on further steps toward the completion of this board which is expected to take place in February.

2. Home Economics Council.

The functioning of a Home Economics Council is evident in the home economics program and the organization is expected to be completed in 1959.

occupying 6,004 homes. Statistics show that more than half of these homes are farm homes. The farms range in size from three acres to more than two hundred acres with nearly three-fourths of the entire acreage in farm land.

Income from farm products sold amounts to more than six million dollars annually from field crops, dairy products, poultry, livestock, fruit and vegetables. Non-farm families employed in industrial plants receive average wages according to types of work. Even though the county is considered rural, there are twelve industrial plants within the county limits. The four textile mills, the six wood working plants, mirror plant and Thompson Products, Inc. furnish employment to non-farm families and to certain members of farm families.

The noticeable expansion of housing facilities is the result of the increase in population brought about by the growth of industrial plants.

People for the most part are civic-minded, and the majority of people are affiliated with one or more organization. Religious work is held in high esteem, athletic events are popular and civic organizations function in most communities, particularly in communities where there is a community building at the community center. The Extension Service is responsible for the greater part

I. COUNTY SITUATION.

The Program Planning Committee for the 1959 Home Demonstration Club program looked first at programs for the last five years, then considered general problems that now face farm families and the problems they will continue to face. Adult education as offered through the services of the Extension Department at VPI is familiar to most Franklin County homemakers and farmers and the setting up of programs is carefully done in home demonstration clubs. The needs of groups was the basis for the 1959 Franklin County program.

For five months, some phase of foods programs or service will be used which shows the trend toward improving nutrition. Getting along with others, new ideas in clothing, personal appearance, and home management are also included in the program.

The latest figures on income lists $1512 as the median income for Franklin County residents and the 1950 census gives the population figure of 20,978 white residents and 3,582 non-white
