

“Once upon a time,’
‘In a certain country,’
‘A thousand years ago, or longer,’
‘At a time when animals still talked,’ ‘Once in an old castle in the midst of a large dense forest’
—such beginnings suggest that what follows does not pertain to the here and now that we know.”

Jane Yolen