Good morning!

I am writing to confirm permission to use a book chapter I wrote for Migration Policy and Practice: Interventions and Solutions (<http://www.palgrave.com/us/book/9781137503800>) entitled "Black, Poor and Jewish: The Ostracism of Ethiopian Jews in Modern Israel" in my dissertation for Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University. As I understand it from your Authors' Rights to Re-use Content Page, "Re-use excerpts or up to one chapter of your material in new works, if the new work is authored or edited by yourself and provided such new works are not of a nature likely to compete with the Palgrave Work." My dissertation, while published on Virginia Tech's website, will not be published for profit and in no way should compete with Migration Policy and Practice, and Palgrave will be acknowledged both in the front matter and in a footnote in the chapter itself.

Please let me know at your earliest convenience if I do have permission to reuse this content from Migration Policy and Practice in my dissertation. The chapter as it would appear in my dissertation would be edited and expanded from the version appearing in Palgrave's book.

Kind regards,
Holly

Holly,

Dr. Luke is out of the office for the next couple of weeks. I am cc'ing him on this e-mail and I adjusted the subject line. You may also e-mail him direct. I will also check with some of the faculty members.

Take care,

Karen

Dear Karen,

Hope you are well. I was wondering if you could help me with this? It is rather time sensitive. Should I go to Dr. Luke directly?

Best,

Holly

To: spia@vt.edu

Hello,

I am writing in reference to a book essay I wrote for Public Knowledge Issue 4.1 PK's website is no longer functional, but I was able to find an archived copy of the website (<http://web.archive.org/web/20120724074921/http://pkjournal.org/>). However, in the journal's guidelines, I cannot find reference to whether authors retain copyright of their own materials published in PK. I am finalizing the electronic copy of my dissertation with the graduate school, and a portion of my essay for PK appears in the dissertation. They need confirmation that I do indeed have permission to use these sections that came from my PK book essay.

As PK was a project out of SPIA, I thought it best to contact the school using this email address. If there is someone in particular I should contact, please let me know.

Thank you for you time,

Holly

Holly:

My understanding of copyright for PKJ was that the rights were retained by the author, and the University provided the publication openly to all as public service. We started publishing it 10 years ago in the CDDC, and this open access policy was in the front matter:

Founding Editors

Kimberly Carlson, Center for Public Administration and Policy, Virginia Tech, Blacksburg Kacey Beddoes, Science & Technology Studies, Virginia Tech, Blacksburg Elisabeth Chaves, Government and International Affairs Program, Virginia Tech, Blacksburg Fleur Gooden, Government and International Affairs Program, Virginia Tech, Blacksburg

Beth S. Offenbacher, Center for Public Administration and Policy, National Capital Region

Focus & Scope

Published biannually, issues will feature scholarly refereed articles, book reviews, essays, interviews and other works that develop new knowledge and stimulate advancements in public policy, planning, public administration, governance, globalization, urban affairs and international development. Manuscripts that address the announced theme or question of an upcoming issue, that fall within the above-named areas, may be considered for publication. Interdisciplinary work is strongly encouraged. In addition to manuscripts relating to new developments, we also welcome submissions that re-examine or challenge the deeper questions and assumptions underpinning current theoretical and practical approaches.

Section Policies

- Articles – Open submissions, indexed, peer reviewed
- Book Reviews – Open submissions, indexed
- Multimedia Submissions – Open submissions, indexed

Go Back to Top

Peer Review Process

Scholarly manuscripts submitted to Public Knowledge will be put through a double-blind review process. The editors will make the final decision on publication. Please remove all self-identifying information from your manuscript, including footnotes that might identify you.

Go Back to Top

Publication Frequency

The journal is published bi-annually with each issue remaining open for a six-month period. Refereed works are due prior to the opening of an issue. Please consult our Call for Submissions for the upcoming issue's deadline. Non-peer reviewed works are accepted and published prior to and throughout the six month duration of the issue. This is to help invigorate the conversation throughout the issue's lifespan.

Items in response to the Call for Submissions will be subject to a double-blind peer review by a faculty member or graduate student. Non-peer reviewed items are those that are submitted to the journal after the start of an issue's period and/or in response to the issue's initial work. These will be vetted by the editorial board and posted if acceptable. The editorial board will consider the piece's relevance to the issue, the level of scholarly engagement, and its overall quality. These pieces should not be viewed as refereed work.

Open Access Policy

This journal provides immediate open access to its content on the principle that making research freely available to the public supports a greater global exchange of knowledge.

Kim Carlson is still around teaching at Virginia Tech, I believe in the College of Business. Elizabeth Chaves also was involved, and she is at Vassar this year. There is a chance she is around in Blacksburg, too, this Summer.

Hope this helps.

Best,

Tim Luke
