

Copyright release

This document is requested by the Electronic Thesis and Dissertation (ETD) Signature Approval System hosted by Virginia Tech Graduate School (<https://ess.graduateschool.vt.edu/>) and is submitted along with my MS Thesis named “Liquefaction Triggering model for subduction zone earthquakes” (2021), in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the degree of Master of Science in Civil Engineering.

I, Balakumar Anbazhagan, claim copyright protection for my MS Thesis titled “Liquefaction triggering model for subduction zone earthquakes” (2021). I hereby grant to Virginia Tech and its agents the non-exclusive license to archive and make accessible, after one year, my thesis [in whole or in part in all forms of media], now or hereafter known. I retain all ownership rights to the copyright of the thesis or dissertation. I also retain the right to use in future works (such as articles or books) all or part of this thesis or dissertation.

Balakumar Anbazhagan