

Table of Contents

Acknowledgements	iv
List of Tables	vii
Introduction: The Labour Party, Electoral Success, and Failure	1
1. A Theoretical Framework for Studying The Labour Party in Opposition	7
2. 1979-83: Weak Agency and Labour's Electoral Nadir	25
3. 1983-92: Neil Kinnock and The 'New Model Party'	51
4. 1992-97: The End of Opposition?	78
Conclusions	103
Bibliography	108
Vita	115

List of Tables

1.1	Labour Party performance in British General Elections, 1945-92	2
2.1	British General Election Results, 1979 and 1983	25
2.2	Respondents' Perceptions of Unity and Divisions in Major Parties, 1983	30
2.3	Vote by Respondents' Perceptions of Labour Party, 1983	31
2.4	Vote by Party Leader Most Likely to Get the Most Out of a Team, 1983	32
2.5	Party with Views Closest to Own by Policy Area, 1983	36
2.6	Should the Government Pass Stricter Trade Union Laws?	37
2.7	Respondents' Attitudes to the Common Market	37
2.8	Perceptions of Extremism in Major Parties, 1983 (Oct. 1974)	42
2.9	Vote by Respondents' Perceptions of Labour Party, 1983	42
2.10	'Flow of the Vote', 1979-83	45
2.11	Class Composition of the Electorate, 1964 and 1983	47
3.1	General Election Results, 1987 and 1992	52
3.2	Respondents' Perceptions of Labour Party Unity, 1987 and 1992	58
3.3	Respondents' Perceptions of Labour Party by Vote, 1992	58
3.4	Perceived Issue Positions of Labour and Electorate, 1987	60
3.5	Respondents' Perceptions of Differences Between Conservative and Labour Parties, 1983-92	61
3.6	Respondents' Perceived Issue Positions of Labour, 1992	65
3.7	Respondents' Perceptions of Labour Party Extremism, 1987-92	70
3.8	Respondents' Perceptions of Governing Capability of Labour Party, 1987-92	70
3.9	Respondents' Perceptions of Governing Capability of Conservative Party, 1987-92	71
4.1	Respondents' Perceptions of Which Party Has Best Policies, 1992-96	88
4.2	Occupational Structures in Britain, 1992-95 (Goldthorpe-Heath Schema)	97