

September 27, 2018

Dear Mr. Miller:

Thank you for your inquiry requesting permission to include THE AMERICANS: Reading Study Guide, reading guides 4.1-4.4, to be used in your dissertation appendix. While we have no objection to your request, we are limited as to the extent we can legally grant permission. In looking at the text you will see a photo credit on page 42, Chapter 4 Section 3. We sought and obtained permission, usually for payment of a fee, from the source listed to include these photographs in our program. This source controls the rights to this copyrighted material (the image), and the rights granted to us do not authorize us to approve any additional third party uses. We cannot legally grant permission to you for any selections we do not own. Therefore, we can grant you permission to use: THE AMERICANS: Reading Study Guide, reading guides 4.1-4.4, pages 37-44 but excluding any 3rd party content- the image on page 42.

We are pleased to grant your request as stated on a one-time basis. When using this material, you agree not to portray Houghton Mifflin Harcourt content in a negative light. We understand that the material will be used free-of-charge. No changes may be made to the material without our prior written approval. You must contact Houghton Mifflin Harcourt for authorization prior to publication of your thesis. Please include the following credit on your dissertation with the material in an appropriate location:

From THE AMERICANS: Reading Study Guide. Copyright © by Houghton Mifflin Harcourt Publishing Company. All rights reserved. Reprinted by permission of Houghton Mifflin Harcourt Publishing Company.

We appreciate your interest in this program. Please contact me if you require further assistance.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in cursive script that reads "Kristin Riggs".

Kristin Riggs
IP Analyst