

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

I would like to thank all of those important people in my life who encourage, help, and guide me in the pursuit of my never ending dreams. A world without people like Professor Jesus M. de la Garza and Professor Michael C. Vorster, would be a sorry place indeed.

Over the period of this endeavor, Professor de la Garza and Professor Vorster have become to me superb mentors, to whom I owe a debt of gratitude beyond my ability to pay. I am honored to consider both of these master educators my true friends.

I express my most sincere gratitude to my entire committee, including Professor Yvan Beliveau, Lt. Col. (Ret.) Richard Alvarez and Professor Lawrence Cross, for the most generous of gifts; their time and experience.

Lastly, I must save my most intense thanks for my wife, Kathleen, who has once again demonstrated her love and support, beyond that which should be expected of any human.
