What are my rights as an Emerald author?

Where possible, Emerald seeks to obtain copyright for the material it publishes, without authors giving up their moral or scholarly rights to reuse their work. Read our FAQs.

Moral rights

You retain your statutory right to be recognized and fully attributed as the author of your work. Emerald asks all authors to assert this right as a standard clause on all our licence to publish forms. This right is protected by section(s) 77 and 78 of the UK Copyright, Designs and Patents Act (1988).

As an Emerald author, you retain the rights to reuse your work for a variety of scholarly purposes. Please note that uses permitted below are subject to full referencing and credit of original publication:

Table 1: Emerald Author reuse rights

Visit Emerald's dedicated research platform

The original Owner/Author permanently holds these rights:

- All other proprietary rights not granted to ACM, including patent or trademark rights.
- Reuse of any portion of the Work, without fee, in any future works written or edited *by the Author , including books, lectures and presentations in any and all media.
- Create a "Major Revision" which is not subject to any rights in the original that have been granted to ACM
- Post the Accepted Version of the Work on (1) the Author's home page, (2) the Owner's institutional repository, or (3) any repository legally mandated by an agency funding the research on which the Work is based.
- Post an "Author-Izer" link enabling free downloads of the Version of Record in the ACM Digital Library on (1) the Author's home page or (2) the Owner's institutional repository;
- Prior to commencement of the ACM peer review process, post the version of the Work as submitted to ACM ("Submitted Version") to non-peer reviewed servers;
- Make distributions of the final published Version of Record internally to the Owner's employees, if applicable;
- Bundle the Work in any of Owner's software distributions; and
- Use any Auxiliary Material independent from the Work.

Additionally, authors who choose the ACM Publishing License Agreement, hold all other rights not granted to ACM in the License including the ownership of the copyright of the work.

Authors or their employers may retain copyright to embedded images (e.g., figures) with independent artistic value. Authors must grant permission for ACM to use the image in the context of the article in current and future formats. Such images must be declared at the time of article copyright transfer or grant of license, and declaration of copyright must be included within the image or the caption.

Re-use of third-party material contained in ACM published works always requires the consent of the copyright holder, as ACM's copyright or license does not cover third-party material.

In connection with any use by the Owner of the Definitive Version of Record, Owner should include the ACM citation and ACM Digital Object Identifier.

In connection with any use by the Owner of the Submitted Version (if accepted) or the Accepted Version or a Minor Revision, Owner shall use best efforts to display the ACM citation, along with a statement substantially similar to the following:

"© {Owner/Author | ACM} {Year}. This is the author's version of the work. It is posted here for your personal use. Not for redistribution. The definitive Version of Record was published in {Source Publication}, <http://dx.doi.org/10.1145/{number}>."

Requests made on behalf of others, i.e., for contributions to the work of other authors or other editors, may require payment of the fee.

2.6 Fixity of Works

ACM does not alter works once published. There are times, however, when it is appropriate to publish a revised or corrected version of a work; doing so requires the approval of the responsible editor.

Mary Lee,

During the summer you created some sketches of wearable systems that I would like to use in future works. I have mentioned this to you previously but I would like to formalize this agreement so I don't have to ask you every time. I've attached an agreement that provides myself permission to use these sketches in future work. Most notably in my upcoming dissertation.

Your agreement or disagreement on this matter will have no impact on any role, position, or anything otherwise. I appreciate your work and feel it could be very helpful in the future.

If this is acceptable to you could you: (1) print out the first page, (2) scan it, and (3) email it back to me?

Thanks,

Jason
