Dear Professor Dufour,

Thank you for your email to the American Library Association Archives in regards to permission to reproduce image ALA0001261 – “Hospital Library Service,” circa 1925. Copyright belongs to the American Library Association.

We are happy to give you permission to use this image for your dissertation, Reading for Health: Bibliotherapy and the Medicalized Humanities in the US, 1930-1965, as long as usage of this image is for private study or non-profit use (NOT for sale or digital redistribution). We also asked that you credit the ALA Archives for the image. Each additional use of the image requires further permission from the ALA Archives.

If you only require the image on our database, please read, fill out and return the following form and just ignore the payment section:

You can email the form, fax it to 217-244-4300 <tel:217-244-4300> , or mail it to the address in my signature below.

However, if you would like a high resolution image of the poster for your dissertation and without a watermark, please let us know and I will send you our policies and fee information. We can provide high resolution digital copies of posters from WWII and before, for private study and non-profit purposes only. Later posters require additional permission from ALA.

Please let me know of any other questions. Thank you for working with the ALA Archives.

Cheers,
Cara Bertram
