June 27, 2025
Graduate School
Virginia Tech
Blacksburg, VA

By Virginia Tech Graduate School requirements for the Electronic Thesis and Dissertation (ETD) submission, I hereby grant Virginia Tech a non-exclusive license to archive, reproduce, and distribute my dissertation titled:

"Durability of Cementitious Materials in Arctic Regions: Investigating Freeze-Thaw Damage and Chloride Ingress Diffusion Mechanisms."

This license permits Virginia Tech and its agents to use this dissertation for non-commercial academic and educational purposes. I retain all ownership rights to the copyright of my dissertation. Additionally, I retain the right to publish this work, in whole or in part, in future articles, books, or other formats.

Please note that one chapter of this dissertation is currently under peer review, and another chapter will be submitted for review shortly. The inclusion of these chapters in this ETD does not conflict with the copyright or licensing policies of the targeted journals.

Md Hasibul Hasan Rahat
Ph.D. Candidate, Civil and Environmental Engineering
Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University